ILLINOIS STATE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Crashing cymbals, tramping feet, and blaring trumpets—all add spirit to a Saturday football game.

Victim: fetal pig; act: dissection! A biologist tackles the role of surgeon in an unusual operation.

Exhaustion, relief, and regret overcome an actor as the curtain falls.

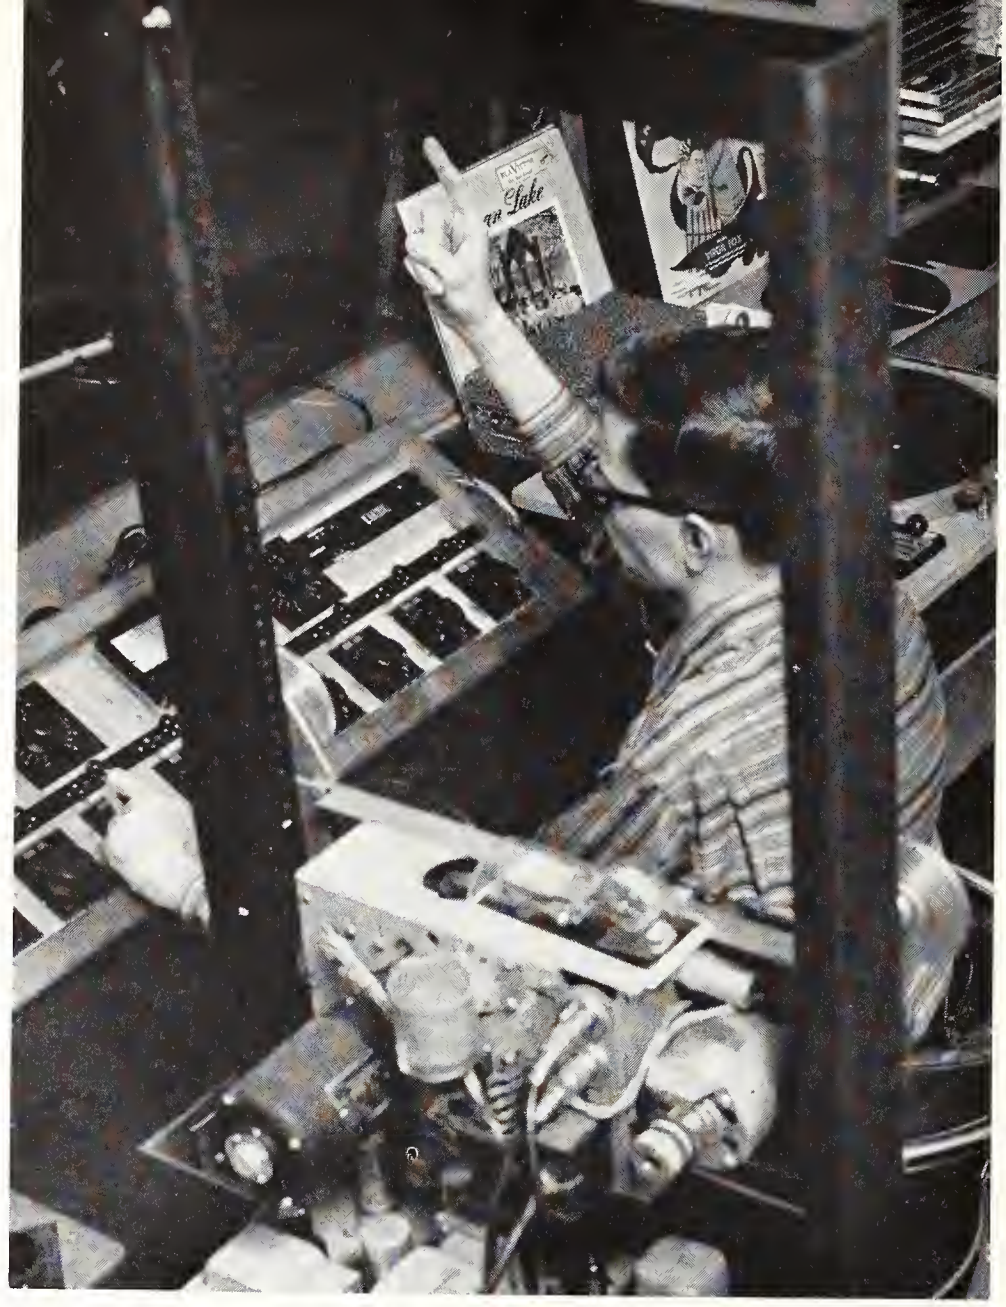

The splash of water and the sting of wetness await a diver.

The tense strain of muscles expresses the wrestlers' determined desire to win.

Knobs, dials, switches—each detail makes up the campus radio control room.

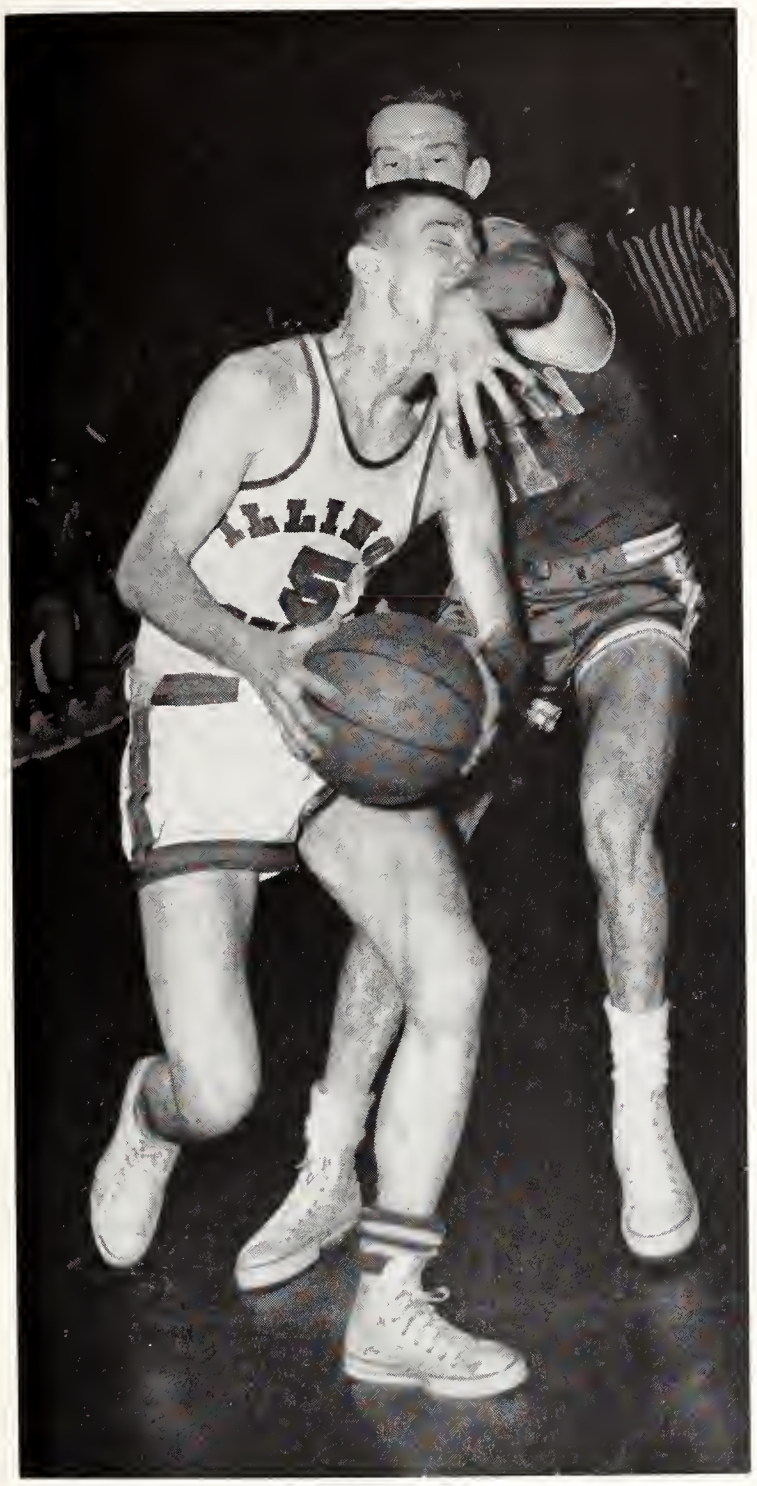

Pausing, the cheerleaders relax before setting off the Birdie Balloon Blast!

The shadows, the snow, black trees silhouetted against a grey sky—a winter scene as witnessed from the Student Union.

Tsk! Tsk! Gene, is that a nice way to treat a guest?

As Dr. and Mrs. Bone enter the Inaugural Ball, a fanfare of trumpets climaxes the end of a very important day.

Three educators, three shovels, a thrust, and the ground is broken for a new Fine Arts Building.

One, two, three—up in the air! Three Gamma Phians exhibit their gymnastic abilities.

A packed house, clapping hands, hot trumpets, and mellow trombones — the "Dukes" entertain in true Dixieland fashion!

The imaginative expressions of life, interpreted with swaying arms, deep shadows—this is Orchesis!

Hallelujah! The strains of Handel's Messiah fills Capen with Christmas spirit.

A madrigal singer assumes an air of merry ol' England.

"My Fair Julius" meditates his getting buried in the morning.

Term papers, classes, dances, dates—all are memories as the long march begins!

Introduction

In the preceding pages, we have given you a candid glimpse of the life of a university, a glimpse encompassing the social, scholastic, and athletic views of an institution that is dedicated to the teaching profession. But a glimpse does not cover everything, and in the following sections of the 1958 Index, we have tried to illustrate through pictures and context the intricate makings of higher education. For some readers, we may have missed important facets. However, we have highlighted the elements essential to portray Illinois State Normal University — both those of academic classes and of participation in the entire process that distinguishes a well-rounded person. In this edition, we hope primarily to please the students, the heart of a growing entity—ISNU.

Those of you who look through this Index in 1958 or in years to come will be interested, most likely, in many of the people and events which are pictured and described herein. Many of these events took place during the Centennial Year and are now a part of history. The staff of the Index is to be congratulated upon presenting a fine picture of the 1957-1958 school year and I am sure you will enjoy this book as you leaf and read through its pages.

Executive's Council

The administrative council at ISNU coordinates all the purposes, functions, and activities of the university in advising the president. President Robert G. Bone heads the council; Dr. Arthur Larsen serves as Dean and Vice-President of the University, vice-chairman of the council, and head of the graduate school; and Miss Elsie Brenneman, secretary of the council, directs the admissions office. The administrative assistant to the president is Dr. Bjarne Ullsvik; the business manager is Mr. Preston Ensign. Miss Anna Keaton and Mr. Richard Hulet, deans of the student body, work directly with students in solving their problems. Dr. John Carrington directs the laboratory school experiences.

BRENNEMAN, ELSIE. Director of Admissions, Secretary of the Administrative Council and of the University Faculty. B.Ed., Illinois State Normal University; M.A., Northwestern University.

CARRINGTON, JOHN W. Director of Laboratory School Experiences. B.S., A.M., University of Illinois; Ph.D., Northwestern University; Illinois State Normal University.

Enjoying a bit of bed-time gossip are freshman roommates Joan Kastle, Martha Laird, and Jo Ann Cater.

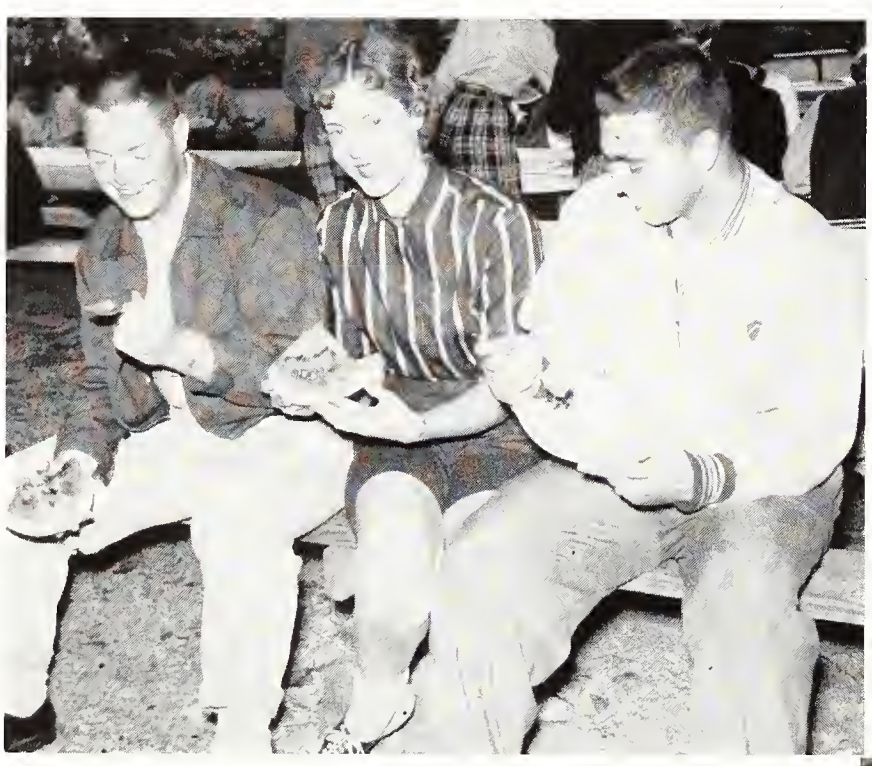

Hostesses Sara Cummings and Amy Moss cordially pour and serve the "President's Tea" for freshmen Stan Miller and Gary Jewell.

Beginning of the

The 1957 Orientation Committee introduced an entirely new way to make freshmen feel at home on campus. Every fifteen freshmen were given a Student Leader who had been chosen the preceding spring on the basis of leadership and scholarship. On Monday of Orientation week, the groups got together and became acquainted with their Student Leaders and with each other. Similar meetings throughout the week continued to give the freshmen a feeling of belonging and provided them with an opportunity to discuss campus traditions. In many cases, the freshmen went to the President's Reception and the Watermelon Picnic with their group, and some groups even attended the September Swing together. In all cases, freshmen were greatly aided by having someone near their own age to aid with the small problems of first week . . . someone who vividly remembered his own orientation experiences.

The wide smiles of Dave Murphy, Doris Setterer, and Leon Carico prove they "sho" like their watermelon.

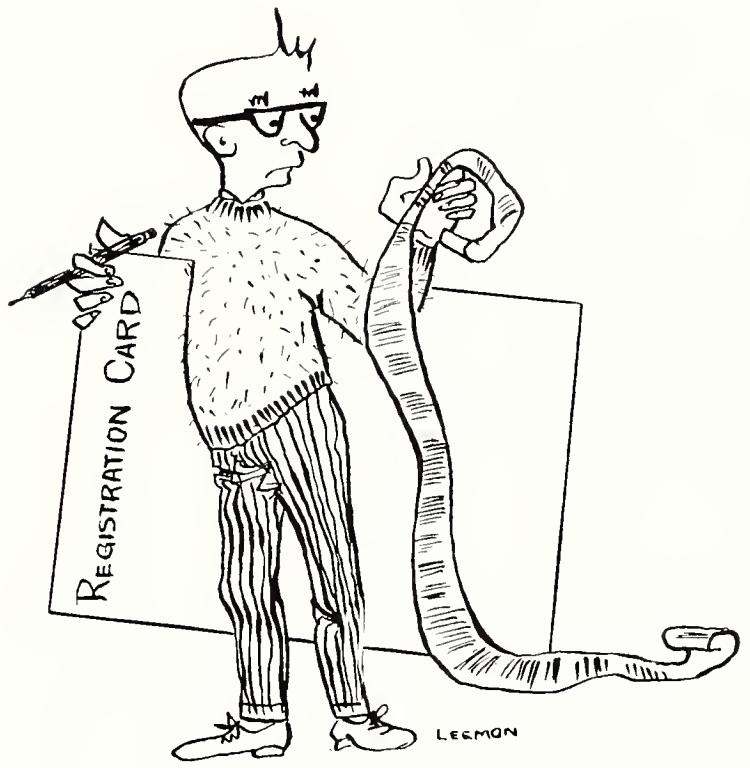

"This is my headknocker . . ." chorus freshman girls as they follow the leader at the evening sing.

Barbara Johnson gives her program to Marv Elbert and Terry Workman for their approval as "Step 5" of registration.

Second Hundred

Registration, as usual, was complicated by the large number of students, but aided by the fact that the freshmen had received some advance information. Although many felt a little bewildered by long lines, program changes, eard collections, and information sheets, even veterans of previous years emerged with a slight writer's cramp. All students viewed the proeeedings as a neees-sity, but few refrained from counting the number of registrations left before graduation.

"Yellow card, white card, long white paper . . . which do you want?" is the problem of registrants who desire assembly seats.

Appraising the job opportunities in California, Guatemala, and mid-Illinois is the serious pastime of Jean Smith and Don Parker.

Job Hunting

Graduating seniors at Illinois State Normal University are well aware of the services rendered by their Bureau of Appointments, under the direction of Dr. Harold E. Gibson. With information contained in their lengthy credentials, the Bureau introduces these prospective teachers to school administrators throughout the United States and Alaska. The services of the Bureau are also extended to ISNU alumni. The Bureau corresponds with these alumni, with other bureaus, and with state and national placement associations in carrying out its policy of effective service to education.

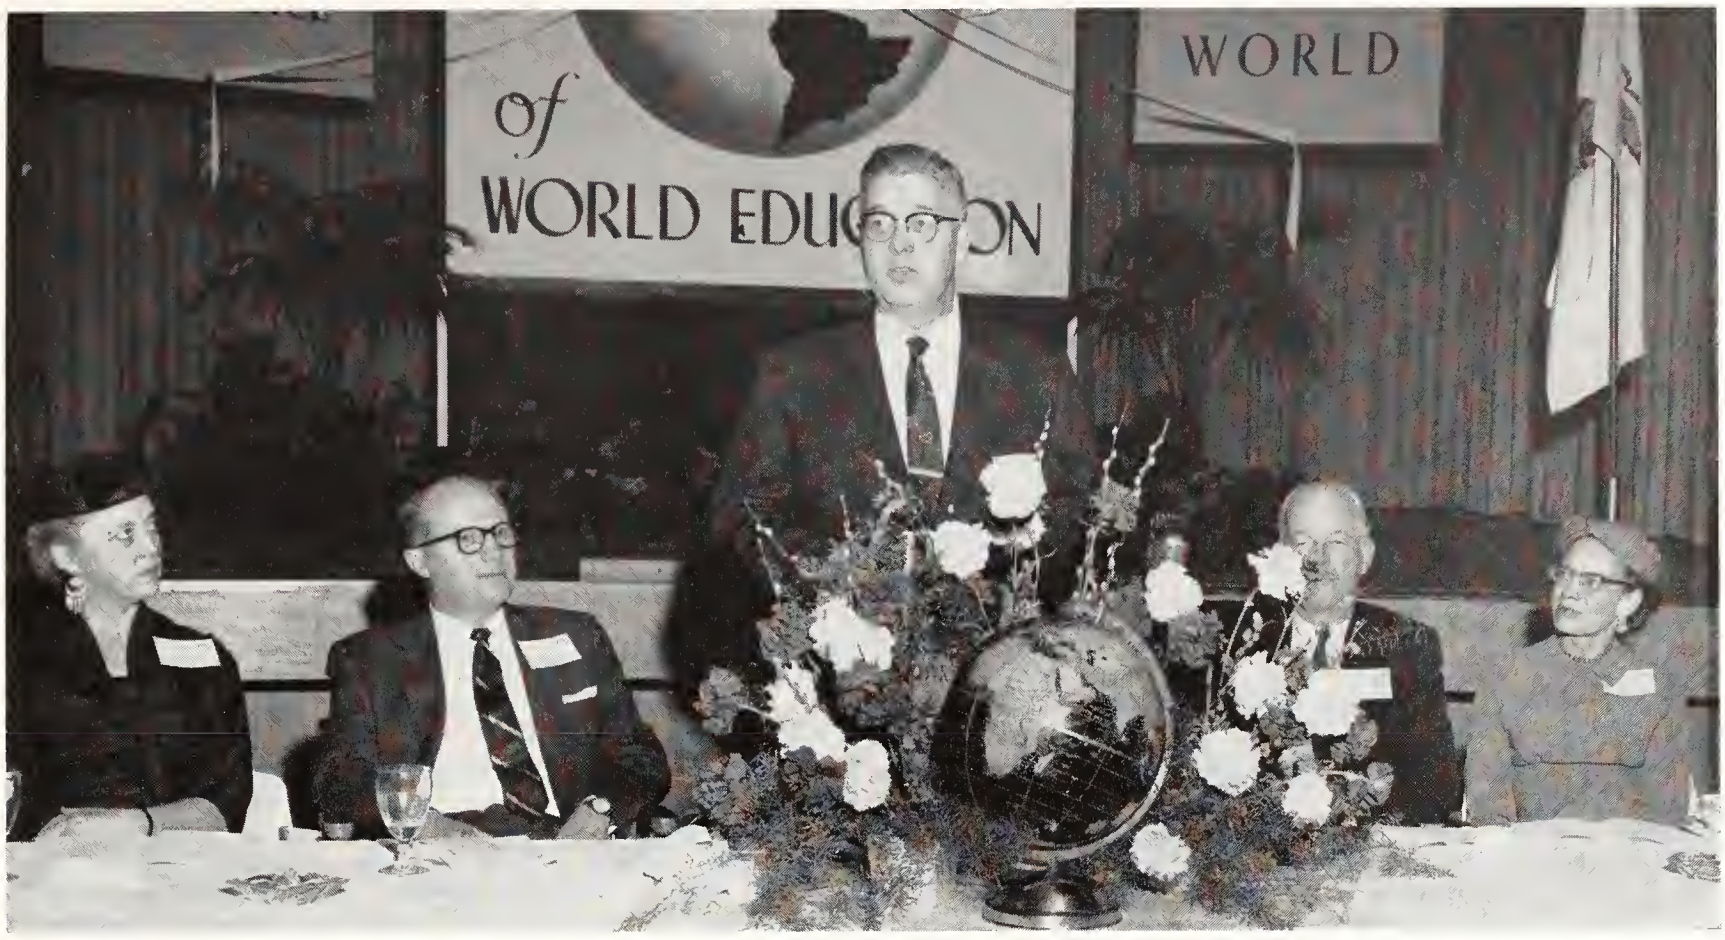

"This should be painless!" Alan Harmon smiles bravely as he feels the prick of the hypodermic needle.

Pill Pushing

Facilities of the Health Service were taxed this year as Asian flu struck ISNU. To cope with the flu, Dr. Hardy's nurses cared for cases in the infirmary and in the dorms. Both flu and polio prevention shots were administered. Receiving these services, students increasingly realized the value of their Health Service.

Dr. Hardy "operates" decisively with his X-Ray machine.

Stressing ISNU's global influence, Dr. Richard Browne holds the attention of Dr. and Mrs. Sorrenson and President and Mrs. Bone.

We Shall Build a University!

Set aside to celebrate officially the beginning of ISNU's second century of service to the schools of Illinois in training teachers, Founders' Day dinner, which was held in the Student Union Ballroom, attracted prominent educators from both Illinois and the Midwest area. After dinner, representatives of the faculty, student body, and alumni each pointed up one of the many phases of ISNU's growth and noted the University's plans for the future. Dr. Richard G. Browne, executive officer of the Teachers College Board, in his address then suggested the increasing public awareness of its responsibility to modern education.

Newest symbol of ISNU's rapid growth, the Fine Arts Building will be opened to music, art, and speech in 1959.

Prospective physical science majors get the "low-down" on ISNU facilities from Dr. Ralph Gooding, head of this department.

Putting Our Best Foot Forward

Each spring, high school seniors from all over the state invade Milner Library to see what ISNU offers them as college freshmen. Here they have an opportunity to speak to members of the various campus departments and to meet President Bone and his administrative staff. Later, after being introduced to the campus and students, these visitors feel that they are more qualified to choose their college.

An enthusiastic group of seniors board the redbird bus for their highlight tour of Bloomington-Normal.

The Active...

Big Four

Some like their music hot, some like it cold; some like it mellow, some like it old. All music enthusiasts who purchased their Big Four tickets during Orientation Week were thrilled nevertheless by the diversified rhythms of four big-name bands. All enjoyed dancing to the popular melodies of the Jimmy Dorsey and Ray McKinley bands and analyzing the jazz patterns of both Harry James and Duke Ellington. An added attraction sponsored by the Big Four Committee was a jazz concert featuring the celebrated Dukes of Dixieland.

Acknowledged master of progressive jazz, Duke Ellington relaxes to sign his name for campus fans.

Enthusiasts of the arts, whether their interest lay in music, drama, or daneing, heartily supported the campus Entertainment Series. This diversified program presented sueh stars as Agnes Moorehead, Raymond Massey, and Martin Gabel in a road-show production of The Rivalry. After sueh legitimate theater, students enjoyed an evening of nonsense with the appearance of Lotte Gosler's Pantomime Circus. Musie lovers then thrilled to the performances of the Roger Wagner Chorale, pianist Edward Gordon, and Leontine Price, an operatic soprano. Working with the Big-4 eommittee, Miss Isabelle Terrill's Entertainment Board also booked Bob Seobey's Frisco Jazz Band in a hot Capen eoncert.

Breaking into a peppy encore, Clancey Hayes, Toni Scott, and Bob Scobey let loose with some good old-fashioned Dixieland jazz.

Cinema-stage star Agnes Moorehead willingly autographs programs while talking informally to her many fans.

LaRae Musselman, Barb Mowder, Bob O'Dell, and Dick Monnard compliment concert pianist Edward Gordon on his performance.

Each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon beautiful strains from the University orchestra drift from Capen Auditorium.

Upbeat

Color, scope, and vigor are the keynotes of the music, both modern and classical, selected by the University Orchestra for their concert appearances. Early in December, the fifty-six orchestra members under their director, Dr. Irwin Spector, thrilled campus music lovers with their interpretation of Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra," Dvorak's "New World Symphony," and Debussy's "Sarabande." Visiting Streator, Mendota, and Lockport in mid-March, the orchestra introduced high school fans to the magical music of Schubert, Copland, and Moussorgsky. In the late May concert, the orchestra rang their selections into the wind of the outdoor amphitheater.

Music theory becomes meaningful when interpreted by orchestra officers Don Erickson, Ron Veselack, and Karen Brown and Mr. Irwin Spector, director.

Eccentric Mrs. St. Maugham is equally concerned about her garden and her sixteen-year-old granddaughter, Laurel, who is under the influence of the butler, Maitland. When three women apply for the position of governess to Laurel, Mrs. St. Maugham selects Miss Madrigal, a mysterious woman who possesses a wide knowledge of gardening. In Laurel, Miss Madrigal sees some of her own faults mirrored. She is able to stabilize the girl before her own prison record is eventually revealed.

Mrs. St. Maugham and her butler, Maitland, watch with concern as Miss Madrigal encourages Laurel to make her first independent decision.

Noel, Noel!

The lighted tree before the Union, the colorful dorm windows, the majestic chimes of the Administration Building—all are a part of Christmas at ISNU. The holy season really begins, however, when the combined choirs present Handel's "Messiah" to the assembled student body. The campus men then emphasize holiday reverence in a Christmas service, while the women sponsor Noontide Meditations. Traveling homeward for their holiday, all students carry with them the true spirit of the Christmas season.

Dean Keaton joins a group of choristers during the annual tree lighting.

Choice of the campus men, Queen Barbara Cannell and her consort, Jerry Traughber, enjoy the first dance as do Jan Koch and Jack Bond.

"Let Us Call You Sweetheart"

A luxurious red satin swing served as the throne for Barbara Cannell, junior from Winnebago, who reigned as queen of the Sweetheart Ball. On the evening of February 8, Barbara appeared from an entrance in a gigantic scarlet heart to be recognized as campus sweetheart by University Club president, Pat Patinella. Attending the queen were Amy Moss, Carolyn Waker, Janice Koch, and Norma Jones, who were also choices of the campus men. The queen and her escort then led the assembled dancers in swinging to the mellow music of Dale Hamilton's orchestra. The soft silver and crimson decor of the Student Union provided the perfect setting for each man to enjoy a heart-to-heart dance with his favorite sweetheart.

Carrying her sweetheart roses, Queen Barbara Cannell steps from a frilly heart to join escort Jerry Traughber.

Angel Voices Singing

Any girl who likes to sing is eligible to join Women's Chorus. These girls participated in both "The Messiah" and a spring concert. The highlight of this year's activities was a trip to Paxton and Champaign where the Chorus sang for high school groups. As a reward for attendance and participation in chorus activities, each girl was able to earn a special chorus pin.

Selected by voice check, the Treble Choir girls sang in one campus concert. They were also heard over the air waves vocalizing their favorite selections, such as "Holy, Holy, Holy," "Wonderful Guy," and "Homework," in recorded Tower broadcasts.

Second Row: Mr. Borg, Marge Powers, Janice Grafton, Bonnie Peterson, Betty Lichty, Pat Millard, Norma Cary, Sandra Modro, Phyllis Elsasser.
Third Row: Glenda Hardman, Sherry Callison, Judy Stegman, Carol Moore, Nancy Miller, Barbara Bank, Mary Lou Town, Pat Gorman, Donna Merris.

"Join We Now Our Voices"

Under the direction of Mr. James Roderick, the sixty voices of the University Choir practiced weekly in preparation for their spring and fall concerts, The Messiah, and the Founders' Day Banquet. In addition to these appearances, the choir also sang for the Centennial Building ground-breaking ceremony. Since all members of the choir are admitted only after intensive try-outs, oratorio choir students practice together in order to be eligible for University Choir.

Poised for song but awaiting the initial downbeat, members of the University Choir assemble for one last dress rehearsal.

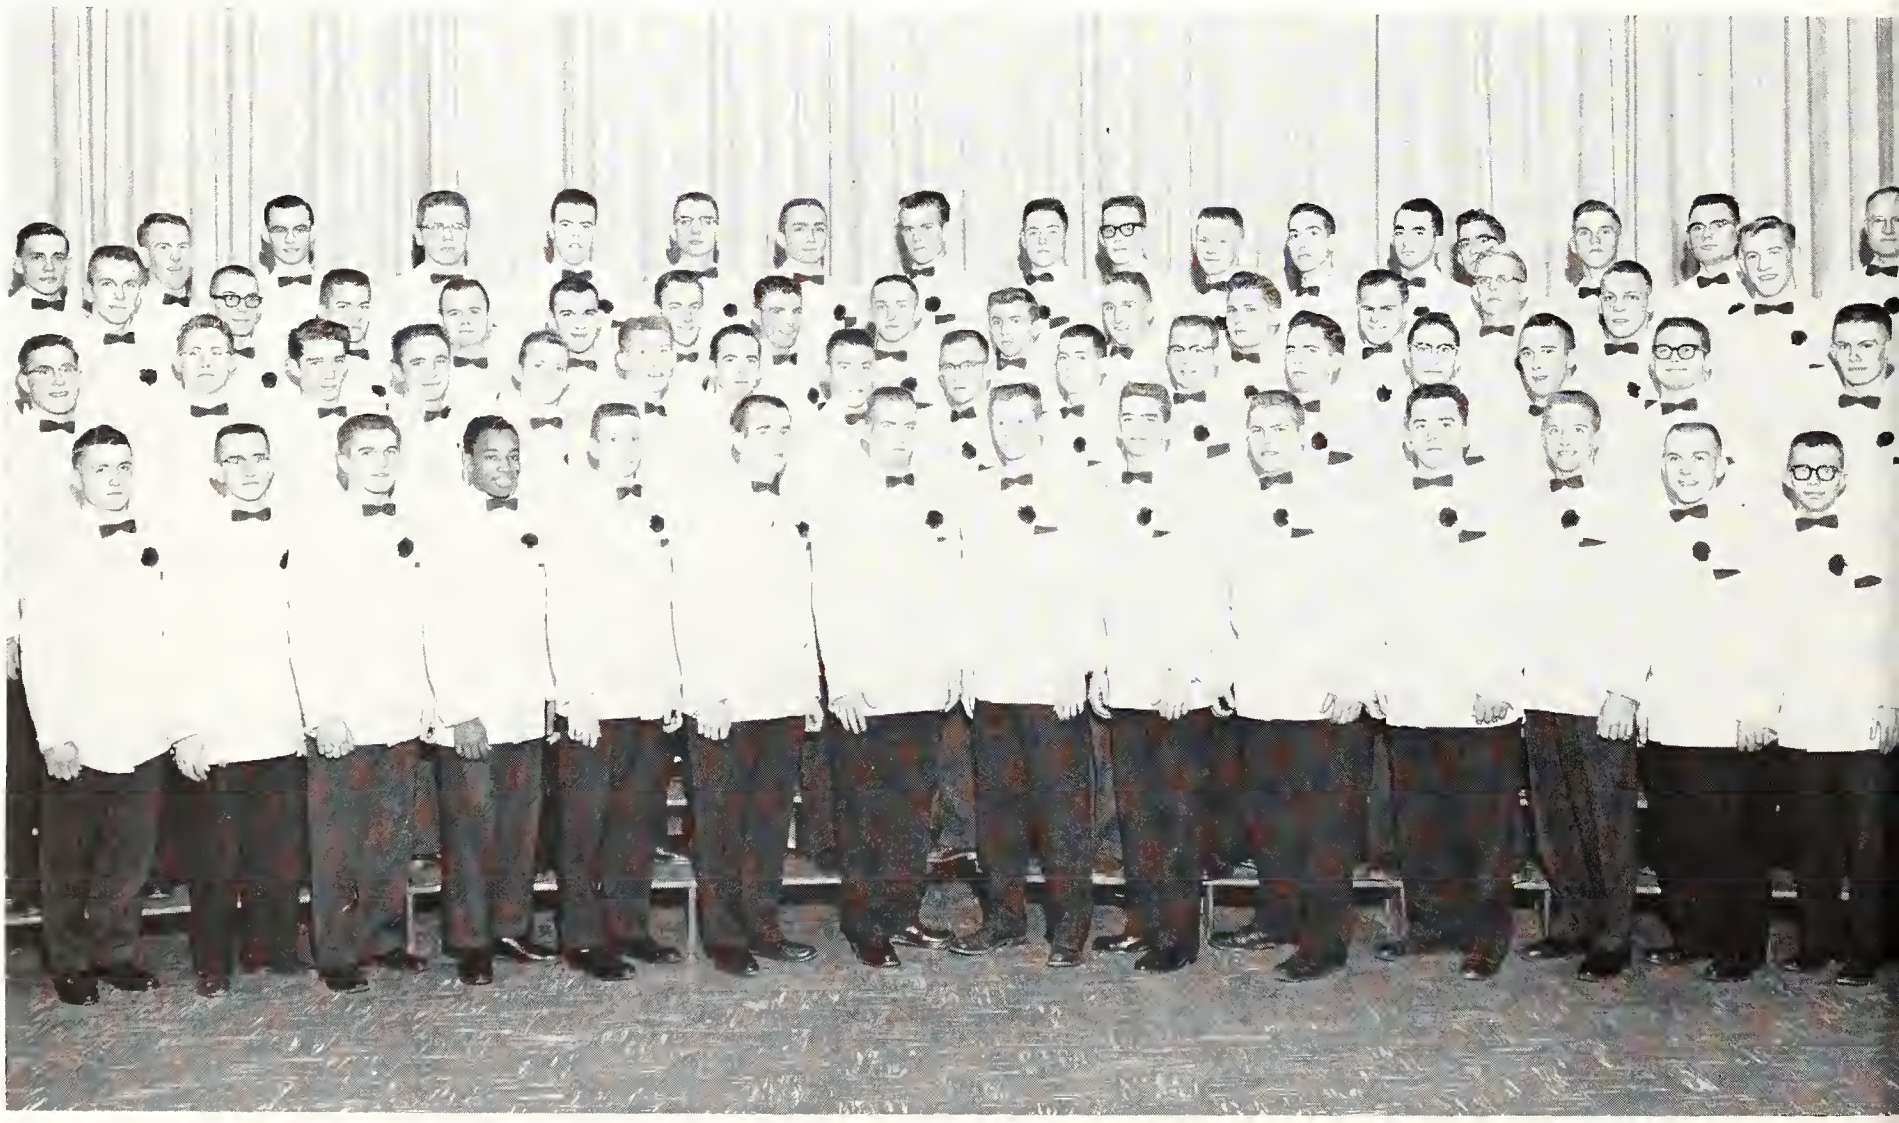

Officers of Men's Glee Club for the 1957-58 season are Chuck Potts, James Ping, Ron Roderick, and Jerry Hug.

Camaraderie in Song

Attired in the familiar white dinner jackets and black trousers, singing "Brothers, Sing On," the members of the Men's Glee Club have become popular both on campus and throughout the state. Selected on the basis of an extensive voice check and with the approval of the club's executive council, these men sing for community banquets, the Homecoming play, and high school assembly groups. This year the Glee Club also presented an hour of harmony for the National Education Association Convention in Chicago.

On the evening of their spring concert, the Men's Glee Club members wait for their director to lift his baton.

Splendid in their red and gray uniforms, Concert Band members meet for one final dress rehearsal before their spring tour.

Downbeat

The patter of the drums, the wail of the trumpet, the glide of the trombone, and the shrill of the clarinet blend together in Concert Band to form worthwhile music. Under its director, Mr. Arden L. Vance, the band practiced twice weekly in preparation for a two-day trip to the Peoria area high schools. On campus, the band treated its fans to peppy renditions of "Trumpeter's Wild" and "March of the Steel Men" as well as the more serious "Lazy Valley" and "Isolde's Love Death."

Band officers Ralph Schlesinger, president; Gerald Hug, vice-president; Sandy Payne, secretary; and Bonnie Litwiller, treasurer, pinpoint the difficult passages in one of their favorite selections.

"Sae Smooth his Speech..."

Interesting and entertaining diversion is open to all students who participate in speech activities. Emoting in such dramatically different plays as "The Ponder Heart," "The Chalk Garden," and "School for Scandal" was a distinct challenge to campus "hams" of all departments. Students who wished to be more profound could channel their energies into debate, discussion, or extemporaneous speaking in preparing for the Edwards Medal Contest. Weekly broadcasts from Tower Studios gave junior broadcasters a chance to direct on-the-spot news to neighboring Normalites.

Imitating the sepulchral tones of the professional announeer, Dale Gronemeier reads his nightly newsscript.

Bill Simms defies Tower Topics tradition and tunes in "Be Bop Baby" for his listening public.

Hit the Deck

"Hallelujah!" was the audience's spontaneous reaction to the Lowell Mason production of "Hit the Deck." The operetta revolved around Looloo, the owner of a coffee shop for sailors on leave in Newport. Looloo fell in love with a sailor named Smith, but forgot his first name when he went back to sea. Her hapless assistant, Lavinia, became engaged to her fifth sailor in six months. When the girls finally caught their sailors, the chorus joined them in singing "Hallelujah!"

"All right, you landlubbers, fall in!" Officer Mike Stiers lines his men up for the lieutenant's inspection.

Suspecting that Smith (Ray Rebuck) has girls in other ports, Looloo (Norma Leben) questions him carefully.

Bat Smith (Gary Widmar) describes his ideal girl to his skeptical friends, Looloo (Norma Leben), Junior (Ralph Schlesinger), and Lavinia (Karen Brown).

Indulging in a girlish game of leapfrog, Heather Fraser gallops over her fallen friends.

With lithe precision, Mary Lynn Brown explores the "ins and outs" of a sloping ladder.

Orchesis Concert

Graceful, free-moving interpretations of such original dances as "One For the Collection," a story in motion of an old woman and the people she meets in a park, characterized this year's Orchesis concert. Keeping pace with the modern existence, the girls used vigorous movement in "Weather Report," a survey of climatic conditions, and "Orbits," a glimpse into outer space.

Joyce Green peeks as Glenda Hardman tries to capture the attention of disdainful Ronola Dabney.

Come one, come all! Get rich quick! Reverting to the days of the California gold rush, the sophomore class booth challenges carnival-goers to pan for gold.

Fancy Free

"Change the beans from one bowl to another using only chopsticks and win a ride in a rickshaw!" "Join the line and place the face!" "Test your nerves!" Offering these lively challenges, Walker Hall, the Junior Class, and the EUB Fellowship won the approval of the booth judges at the annual Women's League Carnival. Seventeen other booths, gaily decorated with crepe paper streamers, added to the diversity of the evening. Carnival-goers could choose to pan for gold, ring the sputnik, identify the inkblots, or find their Univac mate. Their paper money also treated them to refreshments in the underground Clown Cafe. Midway through the evening, the responsive crowd gathered to watch a sampling of ISNU's campus-grown talent. Gnile Cannett won the nod of the judges with a rhythmic spoon solo.

Every carnival needs a clown to stand above the crowd and solicit donations for the Union fund.

Devilish Delight

Garish red lights, taunting devils, grinning skeletons, and yards of twining chiffon provided a brilliant but haunting background for the annual Beaux Arts Ball. The "Inferno," sponsored by members of the Art Department and the Art Club, gave both students and faculty a chance to lose their inhibitions and display their unholier tendencies. Garbed as characters from the famed Dante epic, or representing common everyday devils, or wearing formal dress, dancers enjoyed the soothing music of Ted Kagel and his Bloomington band.

Weird costuming of Eleanor Bennett, Jim Smith, Jack Statz, Sue Ketchum, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesle enhances the mystic atmosphere of "Inferno."

Creaking bones and swirling figures weave their spell into the musical background of Ted Kagel's band.

Capen Capers

The Spring Stunt Show is one of the best examples of student enthusiasm at ISNU. This year Dunn Hall, Walker Hall, Women's Physical Education Club, and the Young Democrats each spent many hours preparing and rehearsing their skits which provided several moments of amusing entertainment for the students, faculty, and townspeople in their audience. "Living Through Art," a musical extravaganza presented by Walker Hall, and "This is Entertainment," Dunn Hall's satire on campus life, were both awarded the first place, a bronze plaque. As an added attraction, a vivacious faculty cast dramatized "An Occidental Slip on an Oriental Rug," to the supreme delight of the students.

Desert sheik Ed Payne leisurely munches grapes while his docile harem houris are fanned by his sturdy palace guards.

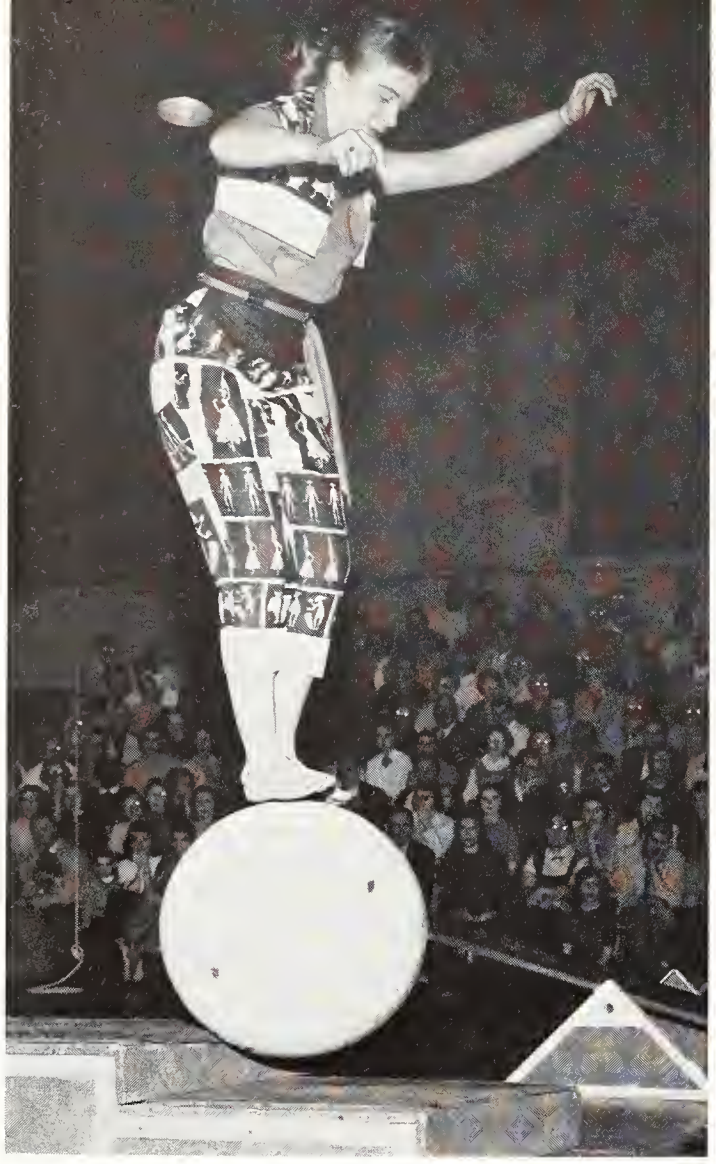

"One, two, three—kick!" appears to be the rhythmic pattern of the Walker Hall Rockettes as they express life in spirited dance form.

Accenting the pulsating calypso beat, Gary Widmar leads his all male chorus in a hip-swinging number from the hilarious Dunn Hall skit.

Thrills Without Spills

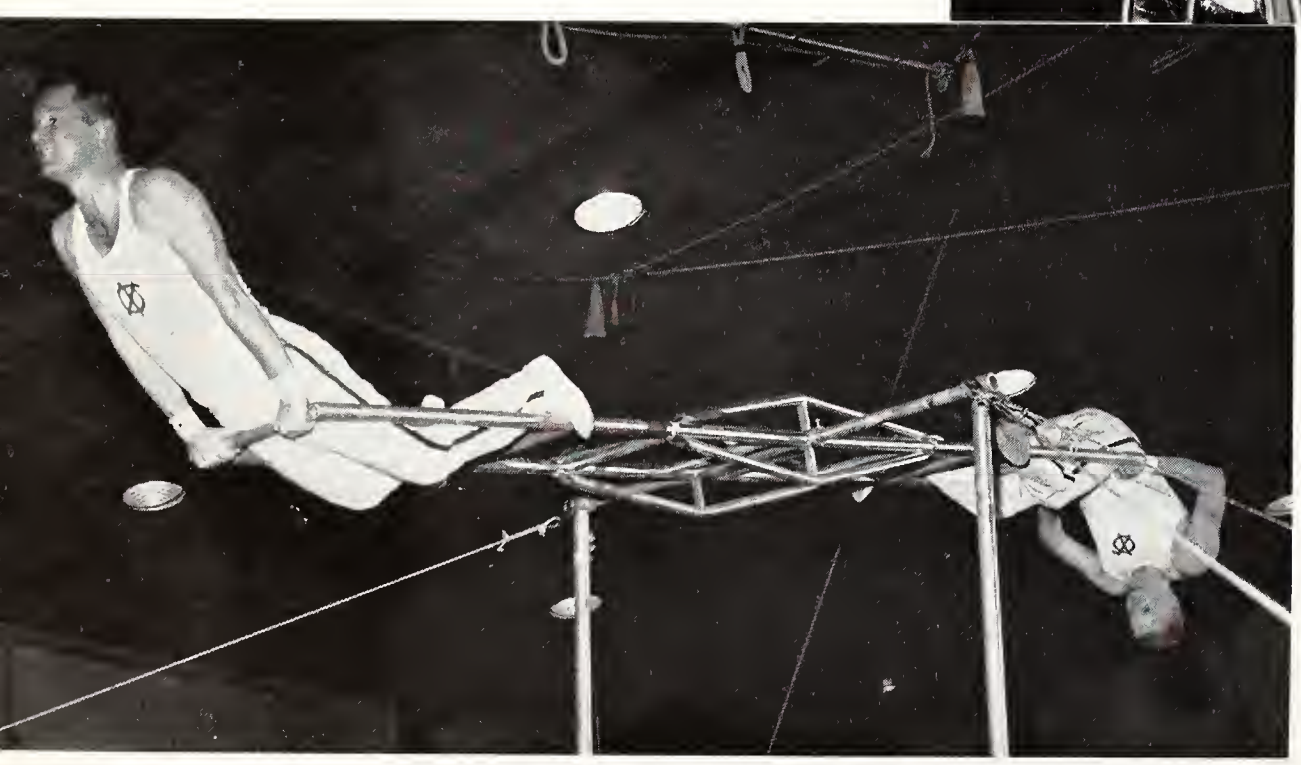

Exhibiting both daring and buffoonery, the twenty-second Gamma Phi Circus rolled into McCormick Gymnasium on the thirteenth of March. Trapeze and ring artists, tumblers, strong men, fiery-baton twirlers, and balance specialists, holding the audience spellbound, whipped through their acts with the "greatest of ease." Gaudy clowns added to the general circus merriment. Lovely Sheila Anderson, reigning for three evenings as circus queen, was attended by Gert Haas, Joey Hoffman, Judy Romary, and Paulette Hase.

She's really on the ball! Devee DeRocker demonstrates the easy way to descend stairs.

A bicycle built for one becomes an eye-catching attraction when overstacked with three.

Dangerously difficult to balance, the revolving ladders test the skill of Dale Montgomery and John Hinds.

As the evening begins, Gamma Phi President Ron Tinsley, presenting Sheila Anderson with a dozen American Beauty roses, declares her to be Queen of the Circus.

Ron Tinsley shows that perfect balance and muscle coordination results in a pose of grace and strength.

Bouncing with comic precision, Dale Montgomery shows the audience that even a clown can conquer the trampoline.

"Step to

Corralling Jayne Womansfield, Senator Estes Goofauver, Julius Caesar, and Nikita Pavlov in a deserted bus depot, the Blackfriars presented their spring show, "Step To The Rear," to an enthusiastic Capen audience. Under the direction of Dave Holcomb, The 'Friars lampooned such modern idiosyncrasies as "BBBBBBBB-ASIA," "Culture With Sideburns," and "Kreegah." The frailties of historical facts were exposed in "If You Only Knew," while the dramatic possibilities of grand opera were explored in "Leoncavallo Anyone." With excellent musical arrangements, the 'Friars united "Julius Caesar" and "My Fair Lady" in a hilarious finale called "My Fair Julius."

"Jack" (Frank Shifter) tries to woo the tempting "Francis" with a soft saxophone solo.

"Star meets star" as Jayne Womansfield, Tarzan, and faithful slave exchange shop talk on their recent films.

Angular forms, lights and darks, make an unusual stage effect in one of the show's more serious numbers.

Heaven... Or Hell?

The enchanted atmosphere of "Two Different Worlds" greeted dancers on the night the sophomores sponsored their elaborate Cotillion. In one world, amid angel-hair trees and celestial images, Charles Roger's Band strummed airy melodies for drifting dancers. In vivid contrast, grinning demons served cool refreshments to all couples who approached their searing underworld. As this varied evening drew to a close, each dancer retained a personal illusion of his unique transformation.

Dancing to "heavenly" music are Nan Hancock and Jim Grey, Shirley Jacobs and Jack Mitchell, Sharon Palmer and Dick Brink.

Acknowledging the Cotillion applause, Carol Cleveland and Rex Parker march to their coronation.

James German and Florence Tooke, Elaine Larson and Ron Slack each give a final twist and twirl to their own Jamaican mambos.

The passing of the Senior president's gavel from Ron Slack to Ron Beer is one of the prom's high points.

Tropical Meringue

An ever-present Caribbean atmosphere pervaded the Student Union ballroom when departing seniors were given a "Jamaican Farewell." Bamboo bids, swaying palms, the steady rhythm of bongo drums, and giant calypso dancers encouraged the couples to abandon themselves to the carefree island mood. Bill Hardesty's orchestra contrasted lulling tangoes with energetic cha cha chas. In this tropical whirl, the graduates found an evening to remember . . . a fitting climax to their senior year.

The professional "swing" technique is demonstrated in the Arthur Murray manner by Marge Young and Paul Carey.

First and Ten

Coach Ed Struck's Redbirds gave ISNU fans something to cheer about this year as they finished the season with a 5-3 record and played .500 ball in conference competition. The Birds opened the year with a 14-12 win over a new opponent, Ball State of Indiana. Eastern Michigan, the eventual conference champs, gave Normal a dismal start in circuit play as they dealt the Struckmen a 33-14 setback, but ISNU came back with wins over Central Michigan and Eastern Illinois. The Redbird eleven almost pulled an upset over second-place Western Illinois as they limited the favored Leathernecks' powerful running team to only 253 yards. But for a 78-yard run by Western's Larry Carron and a safety in the fourth period, Normal might have brought home the "big apple."

The disappointment came in the Homecoming game as hard running Carver Shannon of Southern Illinois pulled his team from behind and left Normal the loser, 28-21. ISNU had held a 14-7 lead at the half time break, but it was Shannon who returned the kickoff 73 yards to set up the tying score for the Salukis. John Thomas scored later in the third stanza, but Shannon again tied the score and the winning tally came by Southern's Kilpatrick. Time ran out on the Birds as they were on the Southern 28-yard line. The season ended happily for a very scant crowd of ISNUites as the Birds rolled over the Wesleyan Titans 39-6. Six Birds figured in the scoring. All-conference quarterback John Thomas scored first and the rest of the Normal tallies were by Carl Eichstaedt, '57 MVP, sophomore Dean Puyear, Guy Neibuhr, Leon Keller, and Mike Hundley.

Crews' Crew

Coach Warren Crews' Junior Varsity football squad ran into trouble this season in the person of a pesky little bug, the Asiatic flu germ. Out of a scheduled six-game slate, the "B's" were able to play only four: two against Western, one with Northern, and one with the traditional rivals, the Wesleyan Titans. The Wesleyan game was the only victory of the year as ISNU won easily, 39-14.

Homecoming Play

"The Ponder Heart"
By Eudora Welty

Setting: Contemporary deep South

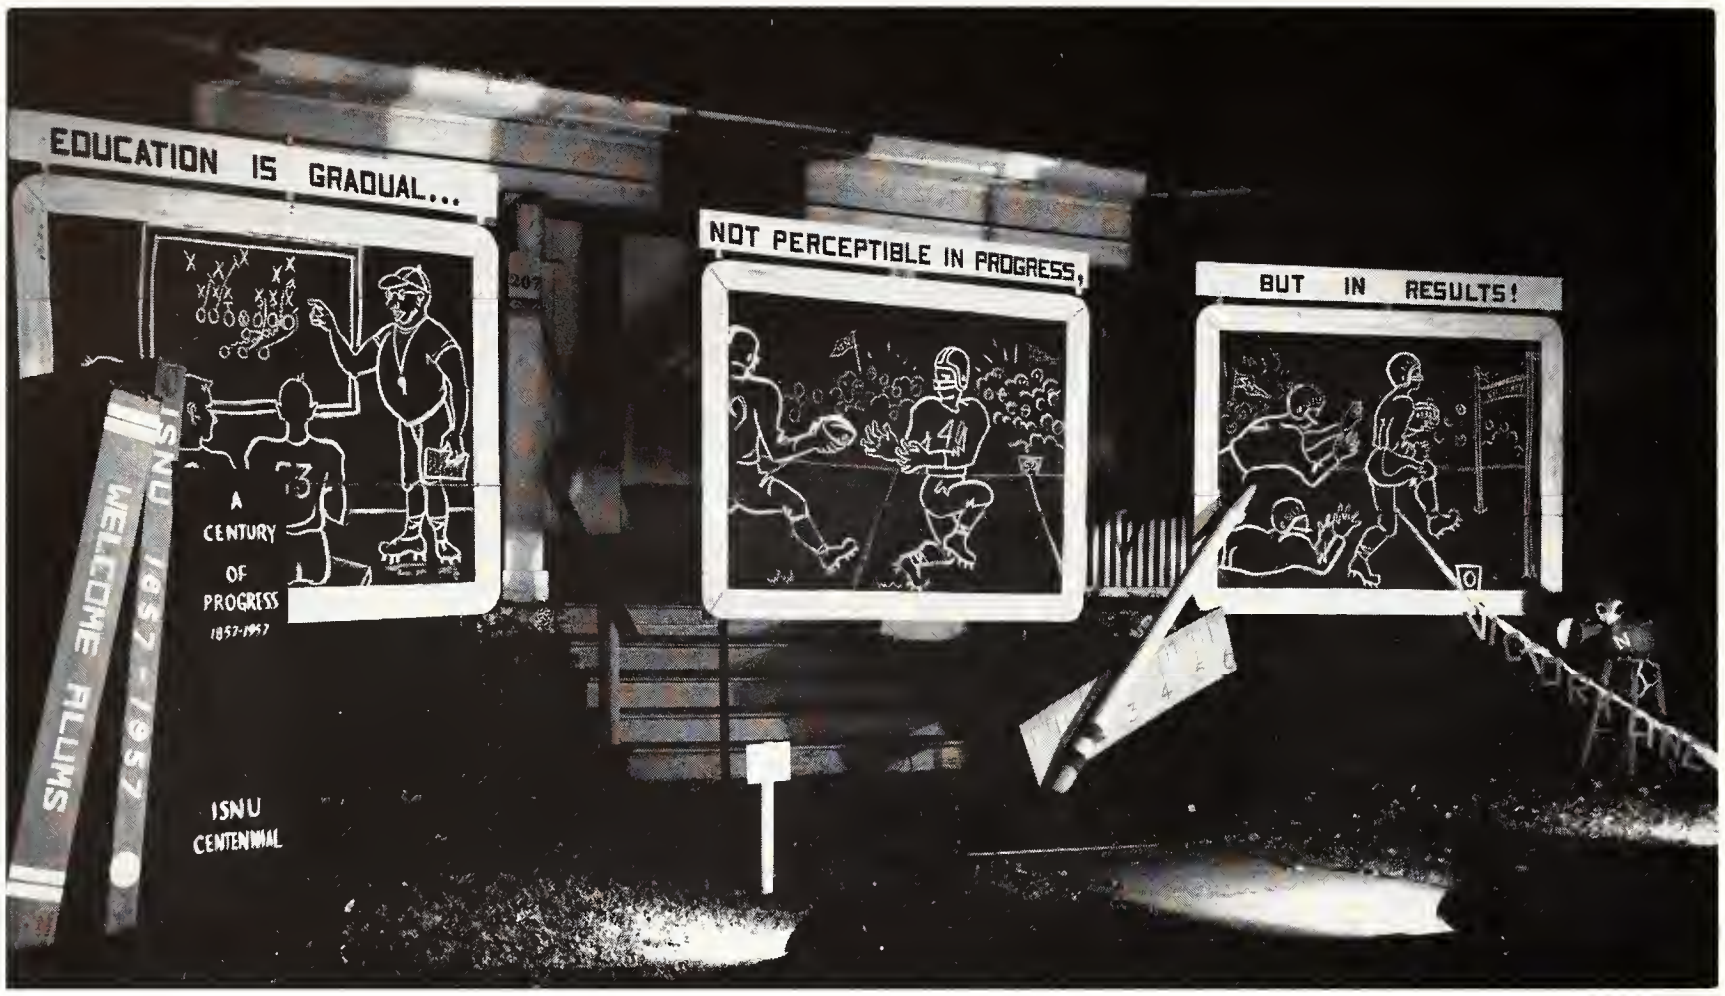

Main Characters:

Uncle Daniel Ponder.....Chuck Schmidt
Bonnie Dee Peacock.....Donna Waddell
Judy Armstrong
Darrett R. Gladney.....Bill Simms

Since the child bride of Uncle Daniel Ponder, Bonnie Dee, failed to achieve happiness by acquiring a houseful of appliances, she considered her trial marriage a failure and, consequently, ran off. When she reluctantly returned, Bonnie Dee died under mysterious circumstances and officials pressed charges against her simple, innocent husband. Darrett R. Gladney, the prosecuting state's attorney, tried to condemn the trusting Uncle Daniel, but a hometown jury easily exonerated him.

Pursuing one of her favorite hobbies, the childish Bonnie Dee trims the hair of Uncle Daniel Ponder.

Blackboard magic by 207 Normal Avenue carries off top honors for off-campus house decorations in the Homecoming festivities.

The Judges' Choice

"On Wings of Song," the Lowell Mason float sails to second place in the Homecoming Parade.

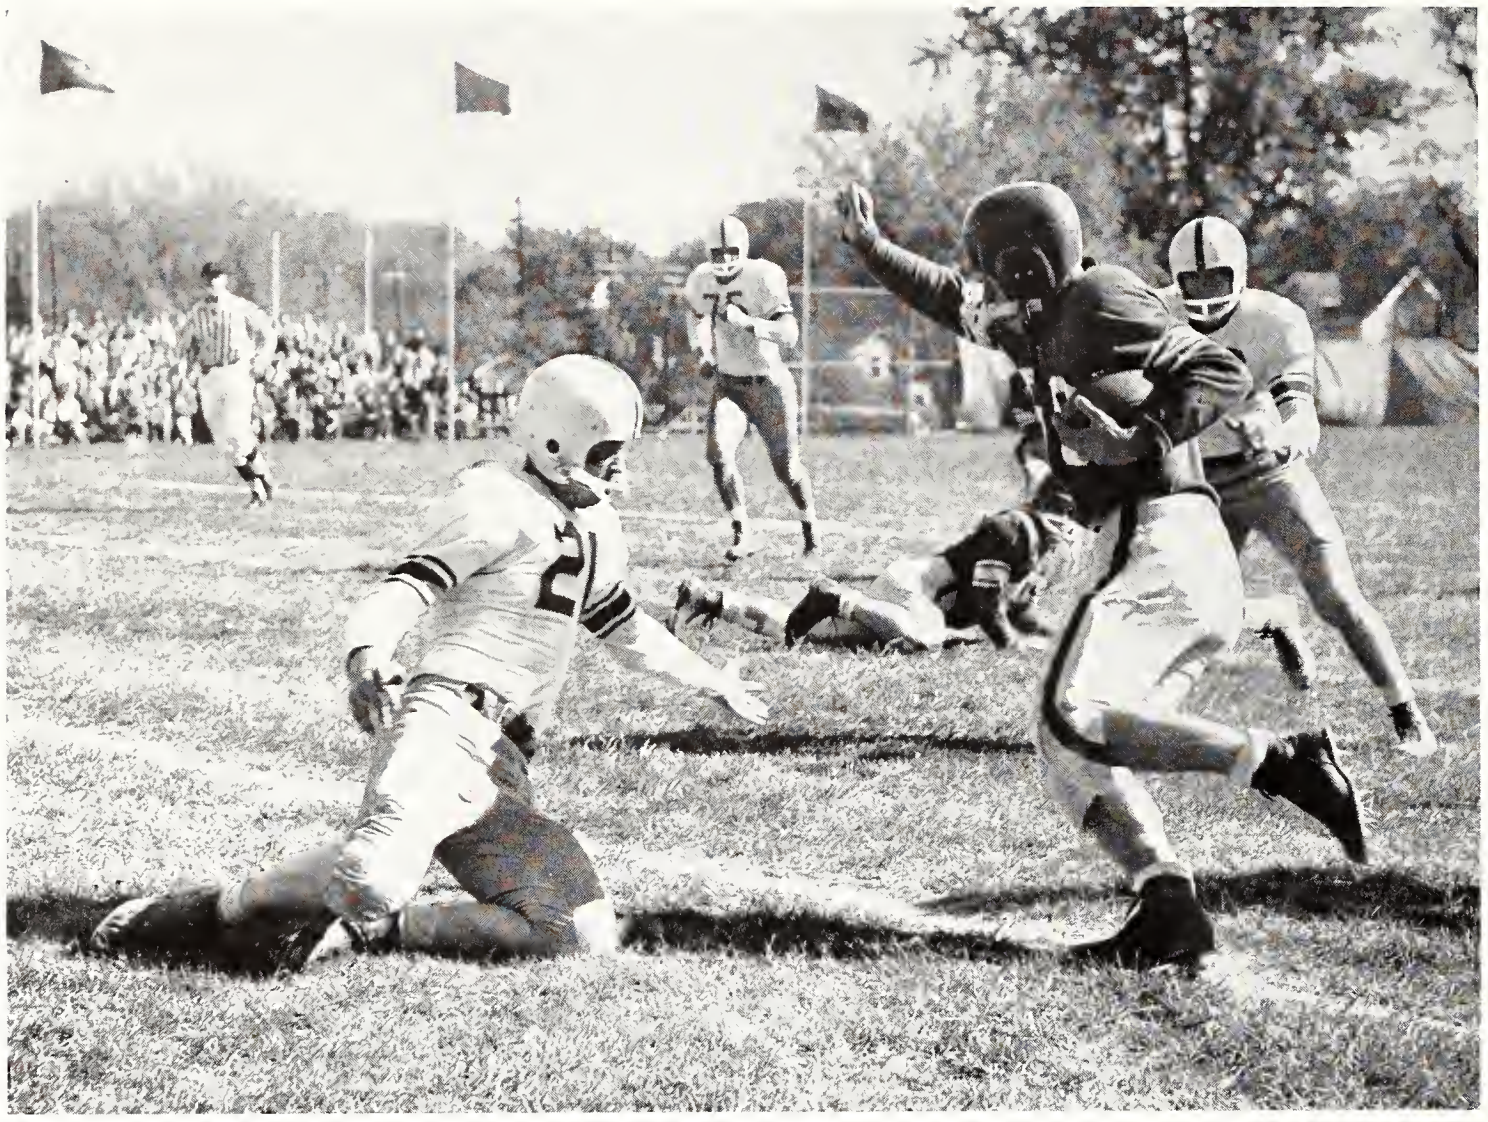

Miss Barbara Nickoley, junior in special education, reigns as the ISNU's centennial Homecoming queen.

"Command Performance"

Pausing in the Student Union the queen's court, Ardene White, Nancy Chiddix, Willene Collman, and Pat Mahoney, wait for the parade to begin.

Halfback Carl Eichstaedt, 1957's Most Valuable Player, attempts to dodge a would-be Southern tackler during a highlight of the Centennial Homecoming game. In spite of such efforts, the Redbirds dropped the contest, 28-21.

Homecoming Day

Excited anticipation gripped the ISNU campus on the morning of the Centennial Homecoming. On this clear, crisp October day, activities began early with alumni breakfasts. Shortly afterward, gay floats and spirited high school bands paraded through the streets of Normal. In the final judging, Women's League copped first place in the float entries with its sensational "Around the World in 80 days."

Pent up enthusiasm was released forcefully that Saturday afternoon as a vast crowd numbering 6,000 watched the Redbirds of ISNU kick off against the Salukis of Southern Illinois University. Spectators were kept on the edge of their seats with the score frequently tied, until the last quarter when Southern overtook Normal to win 28-21. After the excitement of the game, alumni had an opportunity to relax and reminisce at a reception sponsored by the University Club. Climaxing this eventful day, the colorful Homecoming dance allowed each alumnus to decide how his college days added to A Century of Progress.

Anxious fans watch the fighting Redbirds plunge towards Southern's goal in the first quarter of the annual Homecoming game.

Dancing dreamily to the melodies of Sam Donahue and his popular orchestra, Centennial homecomers and undergrads enjoy a festive evening.

Run . . . Run . . . Run

With four returning lettermen and some help from freshman runners, Joe Cogdal's cross country team racked up an impressive six and two record in dual competition. The Harriers lost only to Eastern and Northern while stopping representatives from Bradley, Southern, Quincy, Wheaton, and Monmouth. In conference meets, the Cogdalmen earned a fourth place in the IIAC contest at Carbondale. In the Carbondale meet, ISNU finished only four points off the winning pace.

Fast Break!

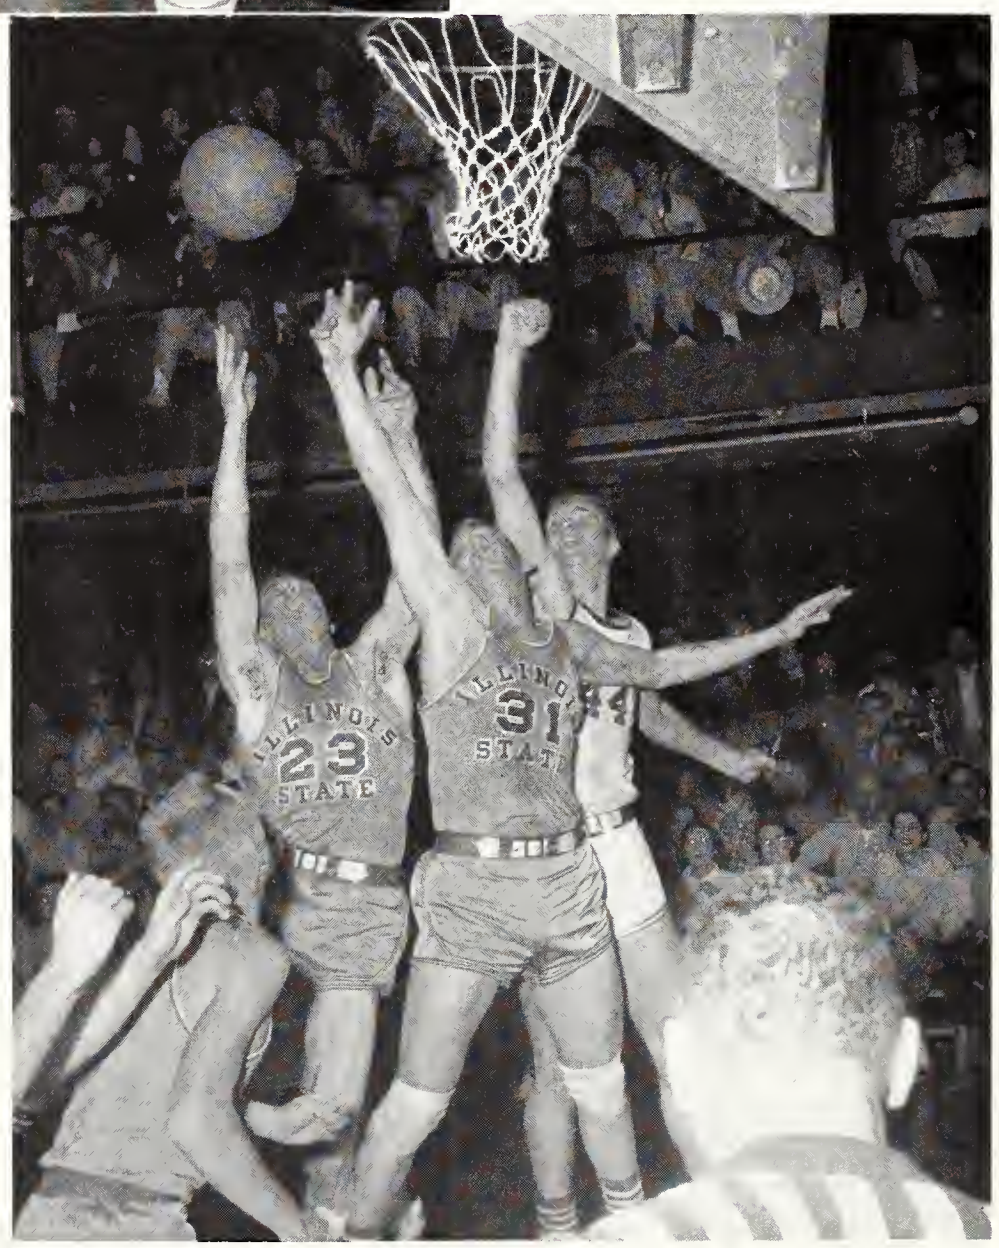

A brand new coach, Dr. James Collie, and a scrappy bunch of Redbirds who never gave up brought ISNU a second place in Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference standings and a 13-14 season record for the 1957-58 basketball year. The three-way tie for second with Eastern and Southern Illinois came by way of a respectable 7-5 mark in conference play. The Birds beat each of their conference foes at least once except for the Leathernecks from Western. It was this same Western team that spoiled Normal's victory string on the McCormick court after the Birds had won nine straight at home. Seventeen of the Redbirds' 28 games were played on the road. The ISNU five had to fight from behind all the way and almost upset the apple cart as they fell only four points short of knocking off the champs. The game ended with Western on top 97-93. Just 27 days before, Collie's squad had lost at Macomb 77-66. A last minute bid to the NAIA tourney playoffs put the Birds up against Pim Goff's Quincy five for the third time. Goff's crew had stopped Normal on the two previous occasions, and only a desperation shot with 12 seconds remaining by Quincy's Tom Campbell edged the Birds out of the tournament 63-62. All factors considered, it was a fine first year for Jim Collie. A well balanced scoring effort and fine team play by starters Dave Schertz, Gene Jontry, Buzz Shaw, Jerry Odell, and Charles Brannan gave State Normal one of its best seasons in recent years.

Up and Coming

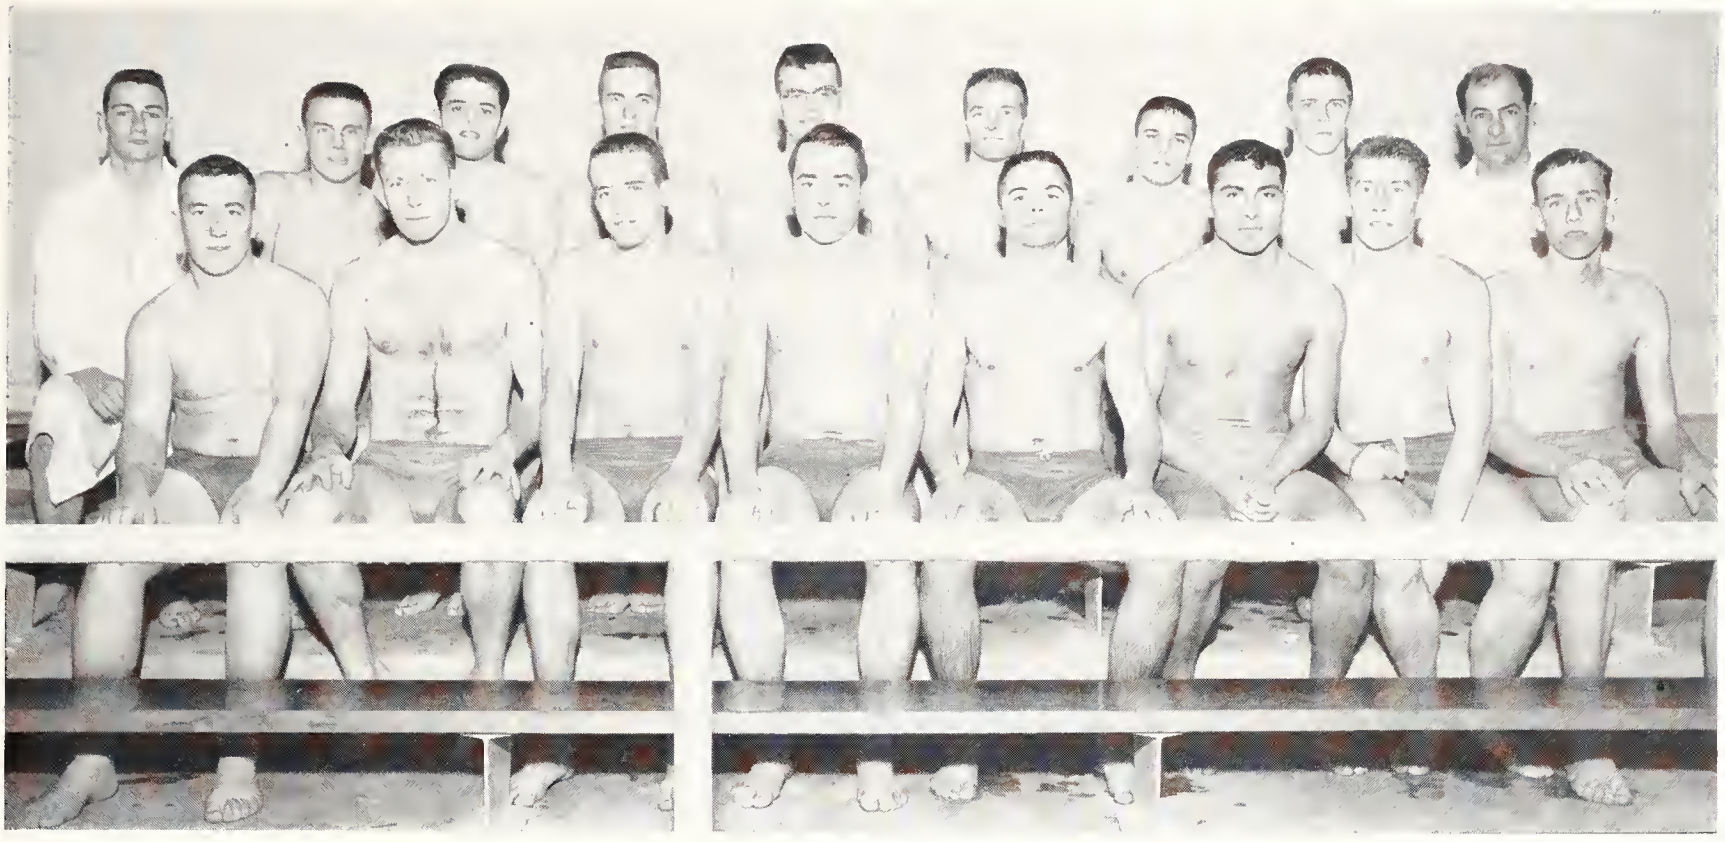

State Normal's "B" basketeers, under the tutelege of Warren Crews, wound up the 1957-58 season with 11 victories in 13 starts. This year's efforts by the Jayvees gave the well balanced quintet a season average of 81 tallies per game. Lind Huisinga and Mel Roustio paced the Bees' scoring attack, averaging 17 and 13 points per game respectively. Team scoring on a percentage basis was a respectable 45 per cent for the season.

Jim Hill didn't really lose his head, and neither did the B squad theirs as they downed Springfield College.

Splash!

Coach Archie Harris' Redbird swimming squad managed to gain only one dual match victory against seven defeats for the 1957-58 season. The lone triumph was over Wesleyan. The Harrismen redeemed themselves thoroughly, however, by copping third place in the IIAC meet at Mt. Pleasant, Michigan. The Birdie effort was climaxed by Jerry Schieber's record-breaking stunt in the 220-yard conventional backstroke event. Bob Milanich copped first place in the 200-yard backstroke in all dual meets but one to emerge the Birdies' most consistent winner.

Pinned!

Wrestling at 167 pounds, ISNU's Wally Hess defeated two former IIAC champions at the conference meet at DeKalb to emerge as the 1958 champ. Bobby Juarez, last year's 130-pound winner, after getting off to an early season winning spree, lost his match in the 137-pound class. Both Hess and Juarez copped seconds in the Wheaton Invitational meet. Team-wise, the Birds, hurt by ineligibility and graduation, finished the year with a 2-6 mark.

Time Out for Fun

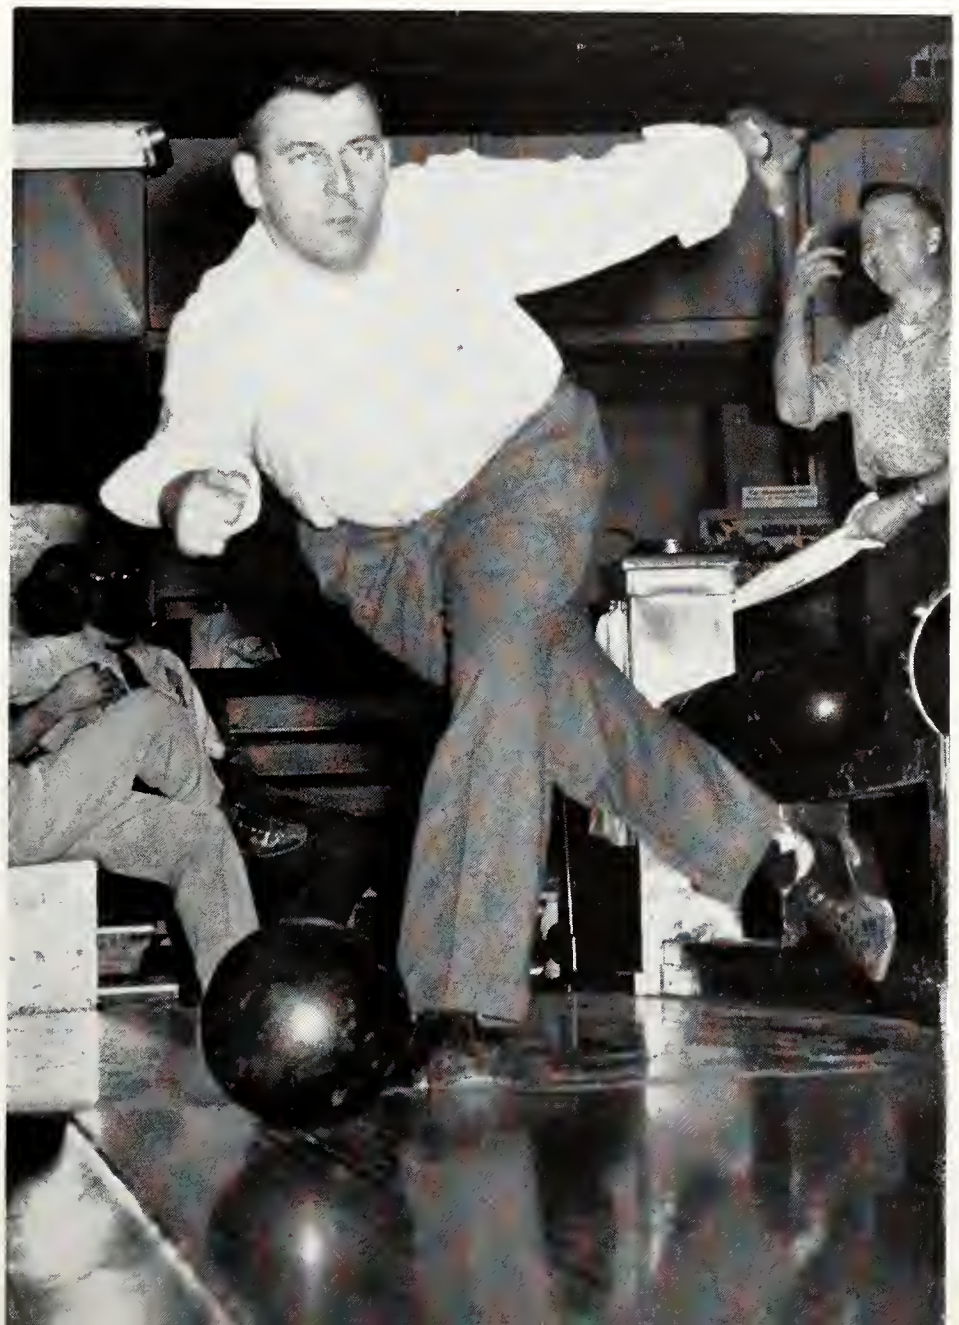

Under the supervision of WRA, all girls attending ISNU are given the opportunity to show their athletic skills and have fun by participating in intramural activities. Sports such as field hockey, basketball, softball, swimming, badminton, and bowling are important parts of the program. In the extramurals, the girls compete actively with their counterparts in other schools. This year the girls who were chosen after extensive try-outs journeyed to Southern Illinois University, the University of Chicago, and the University of Illinois, where they helped create a spirit of intra-school fellowship.

Men's Intramurals

State Normal's men's intramural program provides an opportunity for a great segment of the university population to take part in athletic activities of varied kinds. Flag football dominates the fall scene and a recent addition of an intramural cross country program has expanded the program. An elimination basketball tournament, bowling, and swimming along with volleyball make up the winter's sport activity. In the spring an extensive softball program and golf add to the extensive intramural action. The intramural department is a vital one in ISNU's efforts to make it possible for many men to enjoy active athletic competition.

GOOD FORM—Bowling is one of the most popular intramural activities. Chuck Leech shows he knows the game.

Ready . . . Set . . . Go

In the spring some young men's fancy turns to thoughts of running on a cinder covered track and leaping over hurdles. Get enough of these young men together and you have a track team. While Joe Cogdal's men did not pile up an impressive record of wins, they did manage to cop sixth place in the IIAC meet and sweep five firsts against Bradley University. Bill Stimeling and Dave Shinneman set new records in javelin throw and 880-yard run respectively.

Love... Game

Coach Gene Hill's tennis squad took IIAC honors with their first championship in seven years. Sharing first place with the Redbirds was Eastern Illinois. In dual matches during the regular season, Normal won 13 of 16, losing two to the eastern team. The only other loss was to the University of Illinois. In taking the championship, Normal won two of three double matches with Jay Meitzler and Pat Grant winning in singles. The tennis squad was the only championship winner in the IIAC.

Hit and Run

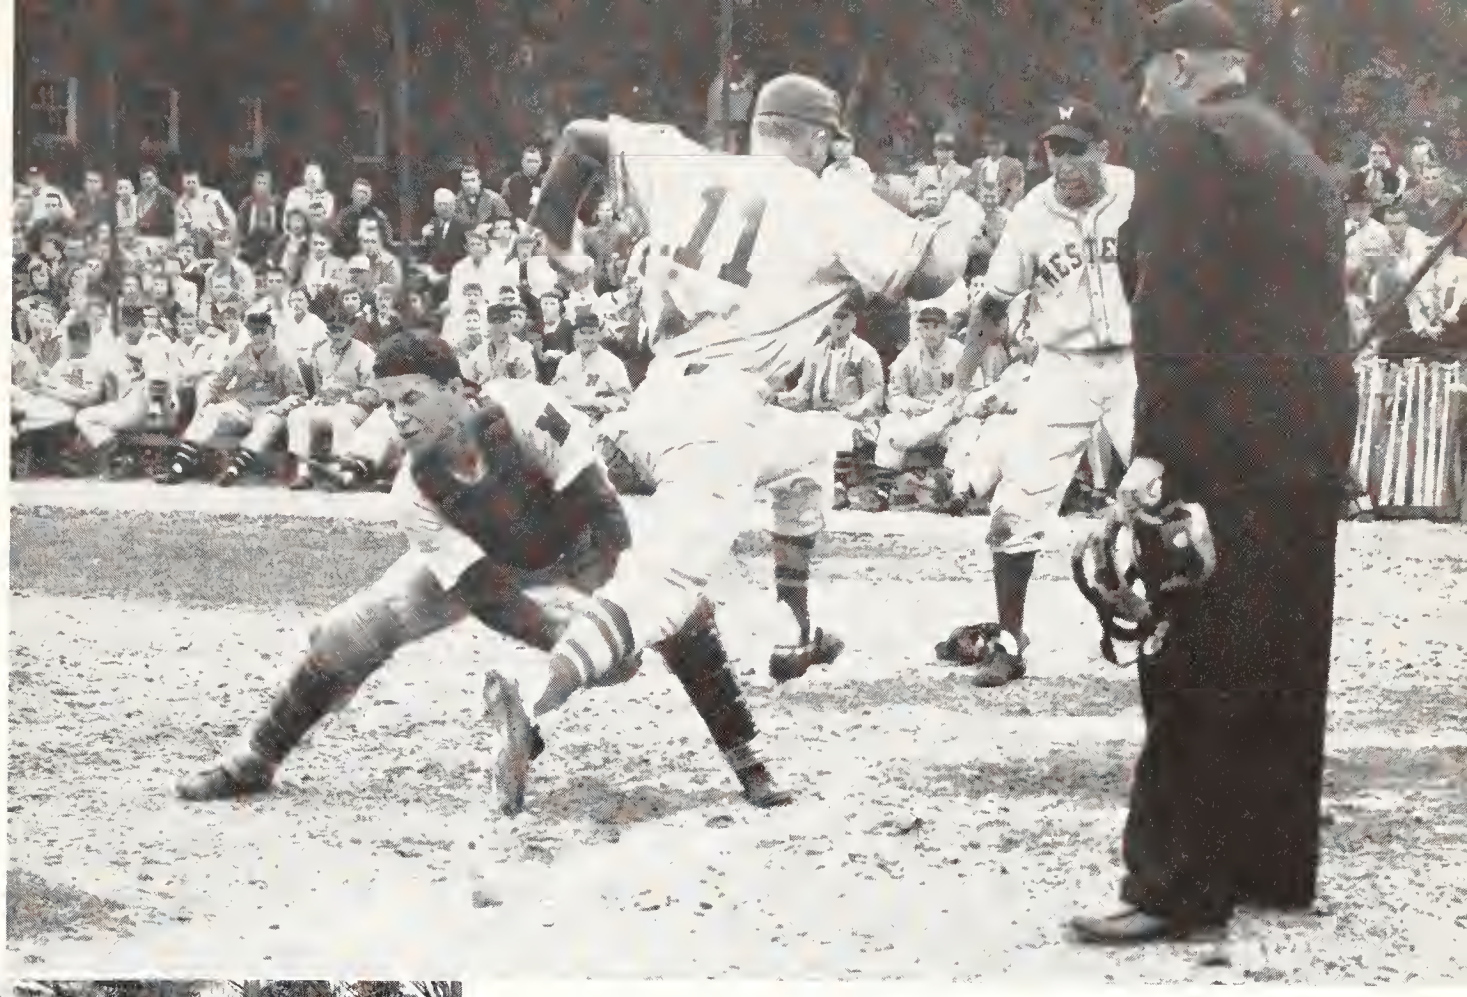

The 1957 edition of the Redbird baseball team under Coach Harold Frye got under way with a three game series with the University of Chicago. That series saw the Birds pile up a grand total of 45 runs to Chicago's 6, the final scores being 24-0, 15-4, and 6-2. 1957 found the Birds defending the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship for the fourth consecutive time, having held the title since 1954. After dropping a double header to Eastern Michigan, the Fryemen came back with a double header win over Eastern Illinois University and another twin sweep over Northern Illinois to keep championship hopes alive. Season's end found the Redbirds with six wins and as many losses, however, for third place.

In non-conference play the Normal nine fared better with ten wins against three defeats. The climax of this string of wins came in a 16-inning marathon against the University of Illinois with junior Wayne Patkunis going all the way, yielding only 12 hits and driving in the tying run to give Normal the 5-4 edge. The season closed with a twin bill against the traditional cross town rivalry with the Titans of Wesleyan. ISNU took both games from the CCI champions, 12-3 and 8-3. Carl Eichstaedt, top centerfielder, copped the Most Valuable Player Award for the season and another Redbird, catcher Phil Hogan, gained honors by signing a contract to play for the Cleveland Indians farm system.

Fore

Probably one of the most relaxed of all collegiate sports is the game of golf. At least this is true from a spectator's point of view. But the boys on Howard Hancock's Redbird golf team know that the competition in intercollegiate golf is just as intense as in any other sport and the desire to win is as strong. The Normal golfers, led by captain Bill Simester, finished the 1957 season in sixth place in conference play and did better than .500 for the season, winning six meets, losing five, and tying one.

The Social...

Miss Eunice Speer, Alpha Beta Alpha sponsor, checks up on the dictionary skills of officers Eloise Cline, Sheila Anderson, Robert Abbott, and Mary Plager.

Alpha Beta Alpha

Encouraging students to become librarians and promoting fellowship and growth among members of the library profession are the dual purposes of Alpha Beta Alpha, the national library fraternity. Special programs on the International Reading Program, the teaching of choral reading, the importance of school libraries, and National Library Week led the members to become more conscious of the influential role of the library in both the school and the community.

Alpha Phi Gamma

Merged with another large journalistic fraternity in early spring, Alpha Delta has now taken the composite name Alpha Phi Gamma. This honorary group, whose members have all worked for an entire year on either the Index or the Vidette, welcomed its initiates in early spring in an impressive ceremony. During the year, all members became more familiar with journalistic procedures by discussing printing and by touring the offices of the Bloomington Pantagraph.

Interested in the make-up of a 1942 Index, officers Ron Bonfiglio, Jackie Noah, Boots Carroll, and Joan Harmer point out a typical page to Mr. Raymond Tudor.

Officers of this service fraternity, posing with Sponsor Mr. Harry Jackson, are Jim Haycraft, John Bowers, Walter MacManus, and Bob Owens.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, a fraternal organization composed of former Boy Scouts, reached toward its goal of community service this year by helping with maintenance and construction work at Hefernan Boy Scout Camp on Lake Bloomington's southwest shore. On campus, this group ushered at all Entertainment Series presentations and aided the University with its traffic control problem. Socially, members found keen excitement in a two-day spring canoe trip.

Alpha Tau Alpha

Agriculture students with sophomore standing and at least a C-grade average are eligible for membership in Alpha Tau Alpha, an honorary agriculture fraternity. Members of this group see as their goal betterment of education in agriculture. Consequently, this past year they centered their activities in conservation and improvement of farm techniques. At the year's end, the most outstanding agriculture student received the coveted Holbert Medal.

Looking over past profits and losses are Alpha Tau Alpha officers, Secretary Roland Schumaker; Treasurer Bob Adams; President Wayne Baughman, and Sponsor John Green.

A bronze bust of President Bone comes under the collective artistic eyes of Ron Hefler, treasurer; Mr. John Wesle, sponsor; Joyce Husted, vice-president; Diane DuBois, secretary; and Arlene Seevers, president.

Art Club

Social activities of the Art Club throughout the year included a surrealistic party, an initiation program, and a festive Christmas party. At the latter, members demonstrated their artiness by impersonating Marlene Dietrich, creative dancers, and Russian ballerinas. Art clubbers also submitted their own masterpieces at the annual art fair. The group's main project, however, was the planning of the annual Beaux Arts Ball held February 22 in the Student Union.

Blackfriars

First to move into an off-campus house for co-operative living, this all-male fraternity invited all pledges to endure the rigors of Hell Week. After the presentation of "Three for Your Money," a campus satire, the men pointed their efforts toward the presentation of a spring show which was written, scored, and enacted by fraternity members. From the proceeds, the men offered a scholarship to a deserving university male.

Unusually thoughtful and sedate are Blackfriars officers Wally Rave, Bill Stimeling, Dave Potts, Tom Olson, John Bell, Jim McCaleb, and Chuck Martin.

Dr. Lewis Toll, Marge Young, Marge Ackerman, Pat Florent, Pauline Hardman, and Dotty Dziadula discuss the advantages of the 1958 business machines.

Business Education Club

A fall picnic and an initiation for freshman members began the round of activities for the Business Education Club. Enjoyed this year were a panel discussion by three representatives of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association who work in this community and a short introduction to teachers' unions by a Chicago union member. One of the most rewarding projects was the club's float, "Business Makes the World Go 'Round," which won fifth place in the Homecoming parade.

Canterbury Club

A member of the national Canterbury Association, the campus Canterbury Club held monthly meetings of spiritual and social interest to all Episcopalian students. Some of these meetings were devoted to discussions of Dr. Arthur Watterson's trip around the world, to the Greek Orthodox Church, and to church seminary life. Students also participated in special Christmas and Lenten services to strengthen their church life and to enjoy inter-faith fellowship.

Pausing after a devotional meeting are Canterbury Club officers Judy Darby, Joyce Green, Ella Mae Branan, Muriel Heady, Nancy Sutcliffe, and Father Bowman.

Christian Science Organization officers Judy Williams and Judy Watt point out one of their favorite Bible passages to sponsor Miss Helen Marshall.

Christian Science Organization

One of the many religious groups at ISNU is the Christian Science Organization, which unites all of the campus followers of Mary Baker Eddy. Welcoming freshman members with an Orientation Week reception, this group then invited them to attend weekly devotional meetings throughout the year. During these discussion periods students clarified their own ideas on the connective bond between personal health and science and the teachings of the Bible.

Elementary Education Club

Planning Halloween and Christmas parties for the Victory Hall boys and encouraging the boys with their studies were professional activities of Elementary Club. This group is directly affiliated with the Association for Childhood Education International. Members also sold red and white pom-poms at football games, decorated a Spring Carnival booth, sponsored a talent night and cakewalk, and decorated a giant Christmas tree for the Metcalf children.

Jean Kazort, Miss Elizabeth Russell, Miss Faye Mansfield, Joyce Sand, Mary Plager, and Edie Walker check up on Elementary Club dues payments at their officers meeting.

Sharon Heldreth, vice-president; Lucy Ayres, president; Charlotte Bray, secretary, and Sponsor Mr. Victor Gimmestead compare pictures of ancient English coats of arms.

English Club

"Children's Literature" was the topic of interest when the English Club joined the Alpha Beta Alpha and Elementary Club to bring Mrs. Victoria Johnson, an encyclopedia editor, to ISNU. English Clubbers also decorated an off-campus house for Homecoming and discussed problems involved in teaching all phases of English in high school. An unique feature in this group's program was the devotion of two consecutive meetings to faculty and student imagination.

EUB Fellowship

Though a newly recognized group, the members of the Evangelical United Brethren Fellowship were quite active in religious activities. Their year began with a picnic at Lake Bloomington for interested students. Centered around devotional topics, meetings were interspersed with films and slides. A Christmas meeting took place at the EUB Church in Bloomington, while a traveling meeting, begun at the Student Union, ended with refreshments at the church.

With a double-paged agenda to cover, President Jane Harlan, officers Leon Rodgers and Delmar Smith, and Sponsor Mrs. Norene Kurth plan the November EUB meeting.

Sponsor Helen Chiles reads selections from Ovid to Foreign Language Club officers, Al Maloney, treasurer; Mary Grace Henke, president; Judy Hayes, vice-president; Rose Gerken, secretary; and Eleanor Bennett.

Foreign Language Club

With the breaking of the traditional pinata, the singing of Christmas Carols in four different languages, and the reading of the Christmas story, the Foreign Language Club celebrated the Yuletide season. At other meetings, visitors from Mexico, Guatemala, and Venezuela spoke about traditions of their homelands. A program of special interest to the group was sponsor Helen Chiles' description of her trip, "Around the World in 64 days."

Gamma Phi

When Normalites think of the color of the circus big-top, they immediately look forward to the annual Gamma Phi circus. Each Monday throughout the year both experienced performers and pledges of this gymnastic fraternity work out on all sorts of flying ladders, roller skates, and balance beams. Members of the circus troop then choose one or two pieces of apparatus for their special efforts. The polished circus success is their ultimate satisfaction.

Informal attire sets the mood for the Monday night workout of Gamma Phi officers, Ardene White, June Alberty, Dody Chandler, Coach Wayne Truex, Dale Montgomery, John Hinds, Ron Tinsley, and Sponsor Arley Gillett.

Contrasting the customs of Mexico and Pakistan are Gamma Theta Upsilon sponsor Dr. Trotter and officers Bobby Jo Spencer, Janet Ritchie, Holly Bryne, and Fred Kunz.

Gamma Theta Upsilon

The foremost activity of the Alpha Chapter of Gamma Theta Upsilon this year was a bus trip to southern Illinois. Making Grant City Park their base of operations, the group toured the area, examining a fluorspar mine, oil fields, fruit orchards, and Shawnee Hills. This national geography fraternity then participated in diversified programs on the following topics: conservation practices, Mexico, Pakistan, and "Around the World in Forty Minutes."

Home Economics Club

One of the first activities of the Home Economics Club each year is a fall picnic, when freshman majors and minors are introduced to the club and its officers. Other projects during the past year included selling homemade candy, sponsoring a style show, and sending gifts to underprivileged families during the Christmas season. Two members of the club, Charlotte Jones and Eileen Carter, serve as state officers of the Illinois Home Economics Association.

At one of the more formal meetings of the Home Eeonomics Club, Myrna Rea reads her treasurer's report to Charlotte Jones, Marge Skowronski, Fran Davis, and Eileen Carter.

Officers Frank Wethington, George Kuehn, Allan Coyle, Dean Teel and sponsor Mr. Claude Bell look over a rough draft of the 1957-58 Student Directory and decide on the red and white cover pattern.

Industrial Arts Club

Supervising the sale of student directories and traveling to the convention of the American Vocational Association were two of the concentrated activities of the Industrial Arts Club. These men also broadened their membership with a Newcomers' Night and offered a tuition scholarship to a deserving junior or senior. High school students in the area brought their craft projects to a roundup where Industrial Arts members inspected them and judged their merit.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship

Aiding the Bloomington Home Sweet Home Mission every Friday evening was one of the primary duties of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Another religious project that this group undertook was the singing of hymns in the Bloomington Courthouse Square. A discussion of "Student Responsibility to Missions," Christian movies, and a trip to a Smithfield, Illinois church where members presented a program, "Growth in Christ," completed the IVCF schedule.

Officers of IVCF who are seated are Fred Kunz, Jessilyn Burgess, Gene Anderson, Beverly Shimkus, and sponsor Dr. Evans; standing are Linda Kuhles, Irene Burcham, Margaret Hustead, Sareta Cowger, and Joyce Bloodworth.

President Robert Monke asks officers Robert Bonnet, Roy Geselle, Sponsor Dr. Ashbrook, and John Gregg how they like the club's newly printed stationery.

Iota Lambda Sigma

Any man in Industrial Arts who can fashion a three-inch cube of any material that is perfect to 1/1000th of an inch is close to eligibility in Iota Lambda Sigma. Highlighting this fraternity's program, students from Germany described their education, emphasizing the industrial arts field. A Homecoming luncheon in the shop of the Metcalf School and a spring banquet to which pledges, faculty, and alumni were invited rounded out the year's social program.

Jesters

Interest in dramatic production is characteristic of each Jester, since prospective members are chosen on the basis of points earned in ushering, acting in plays, and working on play committees. The main project of the group during the past year was the production of "The Chalk Garden," a drama set in southern England. The income from this play allowed the entire group to travel to Chicago to see two professional plays, one as a Jester treat.

Jester officers Jim Smith, secretary; Bill Simms, president, and Chuck Schmidt, treasurer, read excerpts of dialogue in an attempt to choose the winter play.

Officers and sponsors of Kappa Delta Epsilon are: Anne Reeser, Miss Inez Mauck, Miss Louise Farmer, Willene Collman, Patricia Hill, Sharon White, LaRae Muselman, and Mary Alice Longenbaugh.

Kappa Delta Epsilon

Playing host to a regional conference of seven schools with locations from Pennsylvania to California was the privilege of Kappa Delta Epsilon, the educational sorority. Among the sorority's other activities were a trip to the Illinois Reading Circle in Bloomington and the presentation of a Christmas program for shut-ins at a nursing home. A new event in Kappa Delta Epsilon was the awarding of an alumni scholarship to one of the group's deserving members.

Kappa Delta Pi

Highlighting the Kappa Delta Pi program was a mock interview conducted by Mr. L. V. Krutsinger, Superintendent of Unit District Five. In broadening its educational horizons, this educational fraternity centered its discussions on the potentialities of educational television, the near East, and teacher participation in the community. Fraternity members also evaluated two movies dealing with problem children, "A Desk for Billy" and "Mike Makes His Mark."

Reading a letter from the national chapter of this honorary edueation fraternity are the officers, Pat Hill, Len Enrietto, and Myra Stormer, Carole Knudson, Karen Suesse, Judy Kreuser, and Sponsor Sammie Hunter.

Number puzzles catch interest of Dr. T. E. Rine, sponsor; Fran Novak, social chairman; Eleanor White, secretary; Bob Davis, president; Myra Stormer, vice president; and Merle Jarvis, treasurer.

Kappa Mu Epsilon

Projective geometry, problem solving, number puzzles, and the history of math were some of the topics discussed by the mathematical minds of Kappa Mu Epsilon. The honorary society also sponsored the spring Math Conference, which attracted noted mathematicians from the entire midwest. A summary newsletter that outlined the yearly minutes and sketched the activities of the faculty and seniors was available to each member at the final meeting, a picnic.

Kappa Omicron Phi

Maintaining a "B" average in home economics courses is one requirement for membership in Kappa Omicron Phi, the honorary home economics sorority. All members are also responsible for attendance at each meeting of the Home Economics Club. Traditional activities of the group include a pledge service, a Founders' Day celebration, and a spring banquet. The girls also sponsor frequent cookie sales and serve coffee to the AAUP, a professional faculty group.

Wishing Kappa Omicron Phi a happy birthday are officers Jackie Laing, Charlotte Jones, Sandra Stinebring, Janice Rousseau, Marilyn Johnson, Corrine Cornolo, sponsor Miss Frances Conkey, Kay Ashdown, and Elaine Trimble.

Pleased with the success of their operctta are Lowell Mason sponsor Mr. James Roderick and officers Marjorie Powers, Dick Alderman, Ray Rebuck, Lora Pearson, Gary Widmar, Fred Wassell, and Betty Lichty.

Lowell Mason Club

"Music, music, music" was the theme of the Lowell Mason Club, an honorary music organization devoted to the presentation of the campus operetta. This year the group chorused "Hallelujah" in staging Vincent Youman's light comedy "Hit the Deck." In their other activities, the Lowell Masons captured second place in the Homecoming float competition with their entry, "On Wings of Song," and offered a one hundred dollar scholarship to one of their deserving members.

Lutheran Club

This year the members of Lutheran club enjoyed something different in the line of activities by publishing a monthly newspaper entitled The Lutheran Light. Other activities carried out by the club included Bible study meetings, a Homecoming float that won honorable mention, square dances, cost suppers, and the sponsoring of Lenten devotions. Bi-weekly meetings led by four area pastors centered around the general topic "Doctrines of the Lutheran Religion."

Presiding over the bi-weekly Lutheran Club business meeting are officers Beverly Bolin, treasurer; Ed Munger, vice-president; Bob Monke, president; Janet Schroeder, secretary; and Sponsor Clarence Kurth.

Maize Grange

Interest in agriculture is the only requirement for membership in Maize Grange. Depicting this interest in agriculture was the club's homecoming float, "Plowing Through Education." Some events for the rest of the year included square dances, exchange visits with Granges in neighboring districts, and a spring picnic. These activities enforced the main purposes of the Grange, the creation of better educational and economic opportunities in rural living.

"N" Club

Meeting the first Monday of each month, "N" Club members enjoy refreshments while planning their many activities. These lettermen regulate the election of the Homecoming Queen and later escort the queen and her court to the big game. During the year, the "N" clubbers regularly sell popcorn and soft drinks at major sporting events in order to sponsor both a private dinner dance and the Goodwill Dance that traditionally follows the Wesleyan football game.

Checking the "N" Club constitution for business procedure are Secretary Gene Jontry, President Bob Jones, Vice-President Norman Jenkins, and Consultant-sponsor Mr. Carl Heldt.

Officers of the NAACP, Katie Haire, secretary; Walter Blocker, president; and Gloria Campbell, treasurer, listen attentively to Melvin Brewer's committee report.

NAACP

"Vaya," an evening of Latin American folk dancing and instruction, was one of the popular all-school events sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples. This dance was so successful that the club sponsored "a la Bohemia" later in the year. The chapter also engaged in civil testing, traced the history of their organization, and planned a Homecoming tea. Members sold Christmas seals for the benefit of the national organization.

Naturalists

Winning second place in the Homecoming decoration competition by "Ticking off the Old Century" was the feat of the Naturalists. In order to further their interest in nature, this group traveled to Starved Rock State Park and viewed the movies of Dr. G. Baldwin, who with his family had just returned from an African safari. The Naturalists very appropriately sold insect nets and cyanide jars to students interested in "bug" collecting.

Searching for information about a rare insect order are the sponsor and officers of the Naturalists Club: Mr. D. T. Ries, Bob Phillips, Bob Owens, and Bob Martins.

Newman Club

A Glenn Miller record dance, which drew the first semester to a close, was one of the major projects furthered by Newman Club, an all-Catholic organization of both students and faculty. Also sponsored by the club were two general communions to which the members went as a group, plus a Pre-Cana Conference that involved discussions on courtship and marriage. A Baccalaureate service was the organization's way of saluting all of their graduating members.

Orchesis

Rhythmic Orchesis members created two special dances during the past year as their contribution to the Centennial Pageant and the Religious Education vesper service. Moreover, the girls showed originality at their annual spring concert by using new property, a ladder, in their dancing. Orchesis members, who are selected after a group audition, also displayed their talent in Rockford, Elgin, and other towns in northern Illinois during their spring tour.

Practicing for their March 18 tour, Judy McAllister, Sponsor Dr. Miriam Gray, Arlyle Anthony, Joyce Green, Mary Lynn Brown, and Cecelia Brown iron out their program.

Sponsor Mr. B. L. Ryder indicates the correct procedure in operating an analyzer to Physical Science Club officers Jim Stevens, president; Rich Gerz, vice-president; and Myrna Bartelson, secretary.

Physical Science Club

Living up to the demands of an atomic age, Physical Science Club meetings featured speakers with such topics as "Detonation of Atomic Devices" and "Glasswork Applications." ISNU's Dr. Evans told members about his Argonne Laboratory work, and a representative from General Electric discussed work available in the science field. Along the recreational line, these future scientists specialized in an explosive chili supper and an annual spring picnic.

Pi Gamma Mu

All Social Science majors and minors who have maintained a B average in this field are eligible for membership in Pi Gamma Mu. After their solemn initiation, new members can participate in any of the several student panel discussions sponsored by this honorary fraternity. Topics of interest in 1957-58 were the Suez crises, the sociology of religion, and post-war Japan. A spring picnic and a Homecoming banquet completed this group's social activities.

Robert Bulley, president, points out highlights in the European Common Market to fellow officers Gene Anderson, Pat Ellis, Kent Swearington, and Sponsor Mrs. Dorothy Brunk.

Sponsor Dr. Charles White and debaters Jerry Behringer and Dale Gronemeier watch Barbara Mowder as she searches through the fraternity card file for a cross reference.

Pi Kappa Delta

Each year, Pi Kappa Delta, the national forensics fraternity on campus, hosts the two-day ISNU Invitational forensics tournament. Participants this year included more than two hundred fifty students from thirty-five colleges and universities in ten states. At South Dakota State College the ISNU chapter won double sweepstakes honors in both the men's and the women's divisions in the spring National Pi Kappa Delta convention.

Pi Omega Pi

To be eligible for membership in Pi Omega Pi, the honorary Business Education fraternity, one must be a business major or minor with a 3.1 average in all of his business courses. This year the five students who met these requirements formed the executive council of the organization. Together, they held an informal initiation, a Christmas party, and a spring picnic. Also, special speakers discussed the use of IBM machines and the benefits of social security.

Pi Omega Pi officers and pledges standing with sponsor, Dr. Raymond Esworthy, are Judy True, Marge Young, and Marv Smith; seated are Don Musil, Peggy Gemar, Chuck Gregg, Joan Stahl and Ronald Coleson.

Discussing the possibilities of engaging a speaker for their next meeting are the sponsor and offieers of Science Club, Mr. Douglas Bey, Chuck Martin, and Carol Marks.

Science Club

"Mathematical Literacy in a Technical Society" and "Applications of Microwaves to Modern Life" were just two of the programs sponsored by Science Club this year. Summer employment for club scientists and recent missile developments were vital topics to members of this honorary organization. Although most programs were scientific, members of mathematics, home economics, agriculture, and elementary departments are eligible for membership.

Sigma Tau Delta

On the agenda of Sigma Tau Delta during the past year were such varied activities as a birthday party for Shakespeare and an old book sale, which gave students an opportunity to build up their libraries. This honorary fraternity chose its members by evaluating creative works submitted to them by qualified English majors and minors. All members regularly composed essays, short stories, plays, or poetry to be read aloud for criticism at the monthly meetings.

Previewing colored slides for a eoming meeting is one job of Sponsor Miss Lela Winegarner and officers Don Morrison, Barb Mowder, Doris Garvie, and Sharon Heldreth.

Posing formally are Social Science Club sponsor Mr. W. Harden and offieers, Tom Wilson, President; Jerry Behringer, Vice-President; Flo Landoff, Treasurer; Pat Ellis, Secretary; and Wayne Freneh.

Social Science Club

Blasting off their Birdie balloons at the Homecoming, the Social Science Club soared off to an active year. Their chief service to ISNU was sponsoring the Homecoming Parade. Mapping a parade route, outlining float regulations, and contributing prize money were only a few problems solved by the club in planning the successful parade. An important guest of the club was Mayor Paul Egan of Aurora, who spoke to a campus assembly on his theory of government.

Special Education Club

Planning a toy workshop for community youngsters, and a Dutch auction and cakewalk employed the talents of Special Education Clubbers. This organization also worked in cooperation with the Lion's Club to sponsor bi-weekly "Y" nights for underprivileged children and checked the facilities provided for exceptional children in many near-by communities. Members made good use of the new Metcalf pool by enjoying co-recreational swimming.

Special Education Club offieers meeting in a planning session are Arlene Hrubecky, Walt McManus, and Faye Brown, Colleen Mauterer, Ken Berta, Josie Lowe, Naney Jones, and sponsor Mr. E. Olson.

Student NEA

Registering and guiding representatives of the Administrative Roundup and the Central Junior College Council at ISNU were two of the professional jobs of the student members of the NEA. The group also traveled to St. Louis to the American Association of School Administrators meeting and viewed exhibits of educational equipment and model building plans. Ann Sellers, a member of the campus club, was president of the state student NEA during the past year.

Student Union Council

Representatives from the campus classes, the administrative body, the faculty, and the student council make up the Student Union Council. These Council members, as the governing body of the Student Union, make general policies for the use of Union recreational facilities. Besides sponsoring intercampus tournaments in ping-pong, checkers, and billiards, the Council decorated the ballroom for two saucy Cabaret Dances and a merry Christmas ball.

Student Union Council members standing are Miss Vermell Wise, Mr. J. W. Green, Mr. R. W. Beals, Frank Wright, Betty Whetstone, Ray Solodyna, Dan McCoy; seated are Dave Arnold, Maida Wallace, Mr. Bruce T. Kaiser, Jerry Behringer, Terry Workman, Shelia Meidel, Norma Duffany, Lou Schmitt, and Janet Ullrich.

Discussing the crowded agenda for a Theta Alpha Phi business meeting are Sylvia Zappa, vice-president; Dick Snyder, president; and Doris Hoffman, secretary-treasurer.

Theta Alphi Phi

Most important of the Theta Alpha Phi activities was its sponsorship of the spring play, "School for Scandal." Pledges to this fraternity were elected on the basis of individual performance in University Theater work. Once initiated, these members participated in off-campus dinner meetings and tried to begin a readers' theater group that would promote the reading of drama. Several members traveled to Terre Haute for the Theta Alpha Phi national convention.

U Club

Helping ISNU men to participate actively in campus affairs is the one function of the all-male University Club. Events planned strictly for the men included Wednesday evening stags and the Centennial Beard Growing Contest. In the line of all-school fun, the club sponsored the Hood Bawl, the Stunt Show, and the Sweetheart Ball. Bus rides to "away" athletic events and inquiry into club parliamentary procedures were just a few of U Club's services to ISNU.

Pat Patinella, president of University Club, reviews the minutes of the past meeting with fellow officers, Ron Tinsley, vice-president; Marv Elbert, secretary; Bob Owens, treasurer; and Sponsor Dean Hulet.

Making plans to acquaint freshman girls with ISNU are Women's League officers, Treasurer Pauleen Dombrosky, President Barbara Nickoley, Sponsor Dean Anna Keaton, Vice-President Doris Garvie, and Secretary Ann Peifer.

Women's League

Big sisters, working through Women's League, welcomed freshman women to the campus during Orientation Week. In the months that followed, this organization carried off first prize in the Homecoming float competition, co-sponsored Christmas Noontide Meditations, and displayed the latest college fashions at the Centennial Style Show. Highlighting the yearly program, the women named John Wolters "most ideal guy" at their formal dance, "Affair to Remember."

Women's Recreation Association

Badminton, volleyball, basketball, table tennis, and card games were just a few of the Playnight activities that the Women's Recreation Association offered to all ISNU students. This all-inclusive women's organization also sponsored a clinic for high school girls who wished to become more proficient in basketball and body mechanics. The WRA executive board was able to travel to Rockford for the Illinois Athletic Federation of College Women convention.

Standing are Bonnie Wahlheim, Charlene Bremberg, Marilyn Lindstrom, Linda Gibbs, Joyce Albrecht, and Diane Mizerka; seated are Mary Gunderson, Barb Niekoley, Judy Darby, Flo Grebner, Miss Helen Riley, Jayne Rice, Jean Smith, Ethel Mummert, and Judy Meyer.

At the February offieers' meeting, Miss Gwen Smith, Marilou Lindstrom, Diane Mizerka, Miss Betty Keough, Doris MacMillan, and Mary Gunderson discuss the prospect of constructing a booth for the Spring Carnival.

Women's Physical Education Club

Housework, car washes, and yardwork were projects attempted by the members of the Women's Physical Education Club on their annual Work Day. The group also sold ISNU pennants and combs on campus in order to send their seniors to a regional physical education convention in Milwaukee. Rounding out the club's social activities, the girls participated in a departmental faculty tea, an impromptu student show, and a mock camping trip during the year.

WRA Shuffling Shoes

All campus square dance fans are welcomed at the Wednesday evening meetings of Shuffling Shoes, which is an affiliate of the Women's Recreation Association. The barn dance enthusiasts traveled to Peotone, Morris, Peoria, and Alrich's Fun Farm throughout the year to participate in Square Dance Clubs. For campus activities, Shuffling Shoes sponsored two all-school dances, one during Orientation Week.

Pausing for eool refreshments after a fast square danee are co-chairmen and sponsors, Bill Coker, Miss Miriam Gray, Miss Gwen Smith, Ken Myler, and Mildred Lee.

Looking over the treasury balance are the Young Demoerats' officers Flo Sandoff, secretary; Cynthia Grennan, president; Jerry Behringer, vice-president.

Young Democrats

Anyone interested in politics, whether he be Republican or Democrat, is invited to attend the Young Democrats' meetings. This year, campus professors aided the group in discussing such topics as the Little Rock situation, labor problems, and inflation. Mrs. Kinneman, head of the Bloomington Democratic League, gave members some timely tips on running for office and Representative Paul Simons explained the current bills before the Illinois Legislature.

YWCA

Exploring the fundamental differences between the Jewish, Protestant, and Catholic faiths in America, the campus YWCA this year celebrated its eighty-fifth birthday at the university. These active girls also explored the relationship between the Bible and other ancient literature and sponsored a Homecoming Sunrise Service. Socially, the YWCA held a reception for all of the foreign students on campus and sold the traditional red and white Homecoming mums.

Relaxing in the Union are YWCA officers Jean Smith, Jean Westerfield, Carolyn Johnson, Ann Sellers, Bonnie Jones, and Marion Wright.

Third Row: Cindy Grennen, Dorothy Dziadula, Dick Freeman, Ed Munyer, Dale Nowers, Lou Schmidt, Ron Hefler, Janice Rousseau, Jan Godke.

Student Council

Each spring, members of every campus department elect representatives to the Student Council and choose as President a senior with previous experience as a representative. Acting for the student body, the council sponsored the Homecoming Bonfire and Goodwill Dance, the Campus Chest drive, and the elections of class officers. Council members also attended professional conventions and worked with the administration on student employment policies.

Elected officers for 1957-58, Vice-President Janice Rousseau, President LaRae Muselman and Treasurer Loretta Guilfoyle pause to chat with Council sponsor, Dr. Harold Gibson.

Helping in the layout procedure are Di Rothenberg, Margie Pollack, Mary Ann Kondrys, Ron Hefler, Marlene Kern and Sandra Rauschkolb.

Index

"We must meet the deadline!" said Editor Charlotte Bray, and the 1957-58 Index staff went to work. Filing, typing, writing and editing copy, taking and cropping photos, fitting lay-outs, and designing page drawings were just a few of the jobs undertaken by the staff in preparing the yearbook; but page by page, the Index was assembled and sent to press on time. Assisting the editor were Joan Leemon, art editor; Karen Suesse, literary editor; Chuck Gregg, business manager; and John Orolin, photographer.

Carol Moore, Norman Gee, Sara Cummings, Sharon White, and Bill Dean pick out some of the best action shots to be used in the Index.

Typing, telephoning and looking up information claim the talents of Carol McKnight, Boots Carroll, Deanna Watland, Dennis Brockman, Barb Smith and Miss Vermell Wise.

The syncopation of clicking keys is orchestrated by Kirsten Andersen, Carol Rasplica, Alberta Hutman, Paul Beaver, Wini Wright, Bill Granzig, Linda Harvey, Marcia Ayers, Pat Kemp, Jim Smith, and Rita Bubnik.

Vidette

The last minute rush to meet Friday afternoon deadlines and the Monday night make-up sessions are only part of the week's work necessary to bring the Vidette to the student body every Wednesday. Webster's Collegiate Dictionary says that the word vidette is derived from the Latin vigilare, to keep watch. As the campus newspaper, keeping watch is the never ending task of your Vidette, a very important communications instrument at this University. Jackie Noah was editor-in-chief the first semester of 1957-58. Doris Garvie took the reins for the second semester.

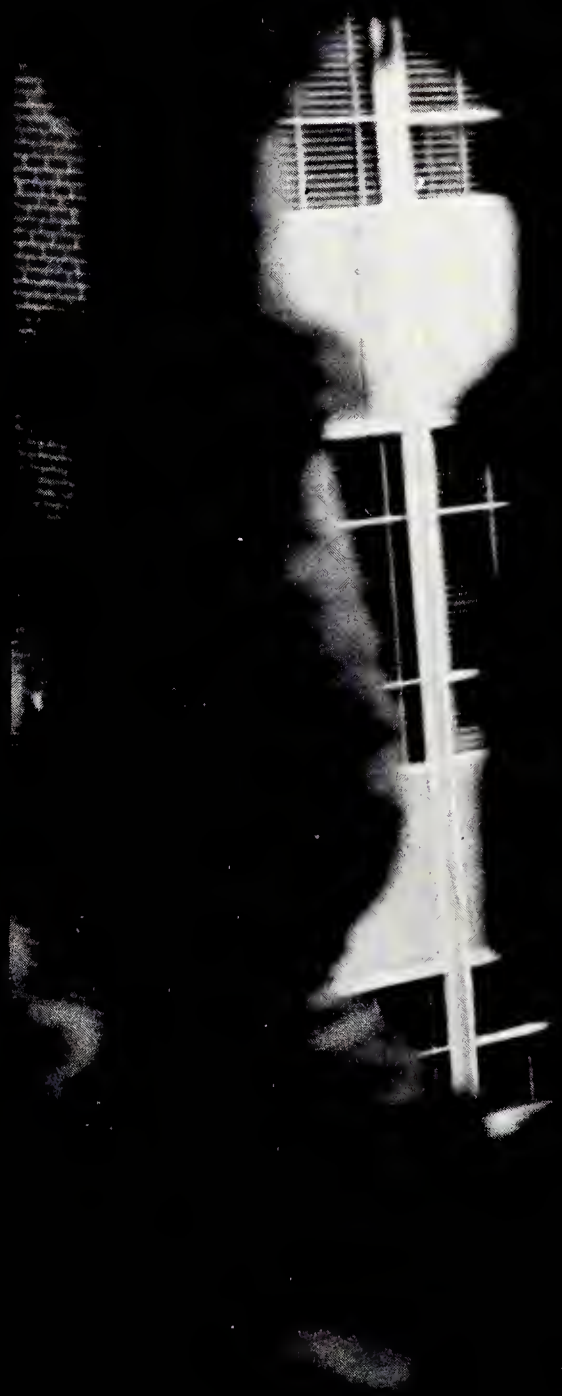

Ann Hofing, Dale Liggett, Joan Harmer, Pat Wegner, Bill Dean, Bob Phillips and Gladys Goodhart analyze the final edition.

Don Musil, John Orolin, Ron Bonfiglio, Doris Garvie, and Jackie Noah review copy with Sponsor, Mr. Raymond Tudor.

The Academic...

Sensory perception of animals and balls is important to the aurally handicapped students of Pat Corby and Mary Smith.

Practice

What causes the vapor trail from a jet? What is snow? What is a cold war? Challenging questions such as these must be answered by student teachers from the elementary to the high school level, for it is during student teaching that one learns the real importance of respecting the individuality of each child. In order to keep the inquisitive minds occupied, student teachers learn to use a variety of supplementary material and to put theory into practice. Personal gains of student teachers include learning to work with experienced teachers, integrating units with special music and art supervisors, and adapting to a new community. Under the supervision of Dr. J. W. Carrington, students may be assigned to one of the fifty-six off-campus student teaching centers, or they may do their student teaching on campus.

Engaging her students in pupil-teacher planning, Sharon White outlines valuable suggestions for a unit on ancient Greek mythology.

Karen Claypool uses a colorful bulletin board display to motivate her young readers during a reading laboratory period.

President and Mrs. Bone greet faculty and alumni guests at the student sponsored inaugural reception.

Duly Inaugurated

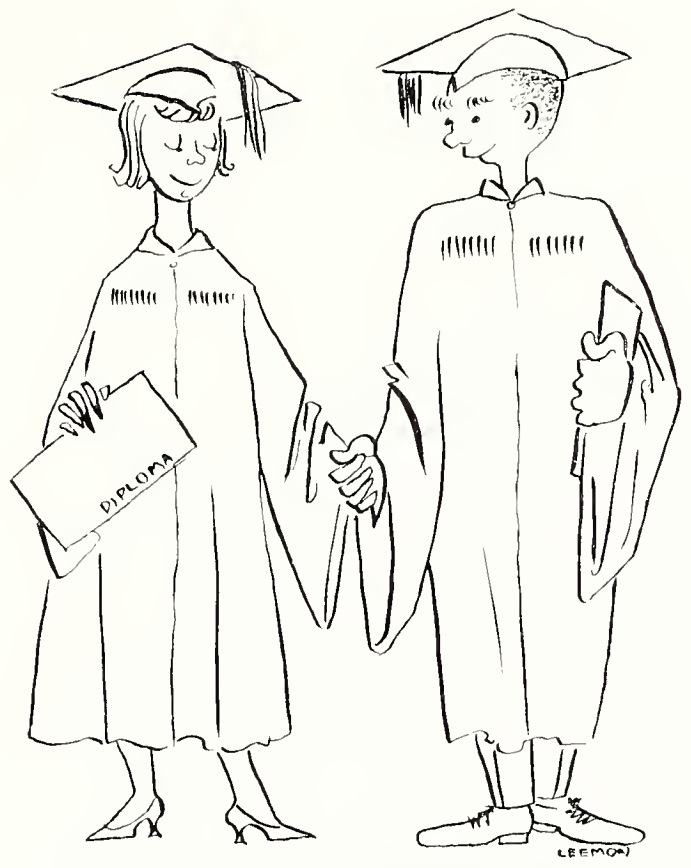

Illinois State Normal University will long remember the inauguration of its ninth president, Robert G. Bone. Early on October 4, 1957, students of University High School led Dr. Bone and members of several national societies to the amphitheatre. As the strains of the processional faded, Dr. J. Maucker of Iowa State Teachers College discussed the progress of education under the title, "A Vigor Whose Uncoiling . . ." Lewis M. Walker, Chairman of the Teachers College Board, then rose and officially installed President Bone. Following an Inaugural luncheon, Dr. W. Gray, Dr. S. Powers, and Dr. W. Wyman, nationally known educators, spoke on frontiers in education in the reading, science, and social science fields. That evening, in fitting climax, ISNU students honored Dr. Bone at the Inaugural Ball.

President Bone is congratulated by Lewis M. Walker after receiving his official title.

New Horizons

As the Old Main bell tolled onee again, the graduating seniors donned their eaps and with measured step proceeded to the ampitheater. Mixed emotions of joy and sadness were refleeted by the seniors, for they realized that graduation, though a beginning, also ended their college days. All looked forward to the teaching career that challenged their talents and energies. Completing their years of study, they anticipated the chance to further their personal goals in eduеation.

The long-awaited moment arrives at last and the graduate, hearing her name, steps forward to reeeive her eollege degree.

Who's Who At ISNU

Outstanding members of the 1958 Senior Class who excelled in extra-curricular activities, leadership, and scholastic achievement received recognition from the Student Council. It specified that each senior thus honored must have been a full-time student enrolled in the University during his senior year; he must have earned twenty-four hours of credit at ISNU previously. Each senior must also have maintained a 2.75 grade average. The Student Council presented each of the outstanding seniors with a plaque for his achievement and recorded his name in the "Outstanding Senior Roll," which will be displayed during Commencement Week. The students chosen were also honored at a tea in early May by their parents, the Council, and faculty members.

Senior Class Advisory Board

The Brass

All of the plans for graduation were considered at length by members of the Senior Class Advisory Board under the direction of the class sponsor, Dr. E. Reitan. This group prepared their own commencement program, sold graduation announcements, and organized a trip to Lake of the Woods on the traditional Senior Skip Day. Further arrangements were made to secure a commencement speaker and to purchase a gift from the class for the University. Socially, the board members sponsored the Senior take-off skit entitled "Harvest Hop" and the class float, "Blueprint for the Future."

Poised on the Student Union steps are the Senior Class officers, President Ron Beer, Vice President Dick Alderman, Seeretary Jo Ellen Bidner, and Treasurer Carol Black.

The Strings

Two outstanding projects of the Junior Class this year were the Inaugural Ball honoring President Robert Bone and the annual Junior-Senior Prom, which was held on the evening before graduation. Planning these major activities, two all-school dances, and a Carnival booth kept the twenty-five members of the advisory board busy at their monthly meetings. The group also met socially at the home of the class sponsor, Dr. Sands, at Christmas time. This year's board members were selected on the basis of their interest and their ability to work for class and university functions.

Standing on Union steps are Junior Class officers Carol McKnight, president; Sara Cummings, vice-president; June Alberty, secretary, and Rita Rogers, treasurer.

The Woodwinds

Under the sponsorship of Dr. Andreas Paloumpis, the thirty-one members of the Sophomore Advisory Board began the activities of the year with the construction of the Homecoming float, "Time Will Tell That We'll Do Well." In October, the Sophomores scattered corn stalks, pumpkins, and soft light about McCormick Gymnasium, creating the atmosphere of a "Harvest Moon Festival." Although the board also contributed its ideas to both the Carnival and the Stunt Show in the spring, its principal activity was the sponsorship of the elaborate Sophomore Cotillion on the third of May.

Guiding the Sophomore Class are officers Ron Hefler, president; Colleen Mauterer, vice-president; Di Rothenberg, treasurer; and Barb Olson, secretary.

The Percussion

Largest of the classes on campus, the freshmen gained a firm foothold in activities under the leadership of its twenty-six member advisory board. First on the agenda was an all-school record dance that was closely followed by plans for the Homecoming weekend. Constructing a gigantic "Roll on, Redbirds" float, the class gained honorable mention from the Homecoming judges. Later in the year, the freshmen sponsored an informal Christmas dance with notable success. Dance proceeds enabled the advisory board to hold a party and sleigh ride for the enjoyment of the class.

President Tom Wares, Vice-President Marilyn Weber, Secretary Nancy Emerick, and Treasurer Judy Jaekson led the freshmen during their beginning year.

Departments . . .

Agriculture

University farm is the home base of all agriculture majors, for here they gain practical experience in livestock feeding, dairying, and poultry raising. Before they are turned loose on the farm, however, Dr. Harvey Woods insists that they take basic courses in genetics, economics, and agricultural education. Orcharding, Pork Production, and Forage Crops teach specialized farm techniques to students, while Gas Engines and Tractors, Home Vegetable Gardening, and Soil Laboratory serve individual interests. As seniors, agriculture men have a chance to share their knowledge with prospective farmers at U-High.

Wayne Durdle shows interest, if not enthusiasm, as Merle Holt and Jesse Tudor scientifically feed and water a University Farm cow.

Faculty and Staff . . .

Members of the Illinois State Normal Faculty, almost without exception, lead busy, active lives. In addition to their daily classes, many of them serve as sponsors of councils and religious, departmental, or special interest clubs. Individual faculty members also serve on diversified campus boards such as the Apportionment, the Publications, and the Religion and Life Boards. Still others work together on administrative committees. To further interests in their particular teaching fields, many teachers are active members of learned societies in which they communicate with other scholars in their field to discuss current research problems and educational trends. P.T.A. groups in the Bloomington-Normal area attract teachers who believe in practicing better parent-teacher relationships while church and community organizations remain open as further fields of activity.

Art

Under the supervision of Dr. F. Louis Hoover, art majors and minors stress art in its most creative forms. Courses in life drawing and composition, watercolor and oil painting, lettering, jewelry, puppetry, sculpture, pottery, and weaving provide these majors with areas for expressing their own originality. An annual Art Fair in the spring gives each student the opportunity to display his masterpieces for sale to the critical public. In his senior year, the major exhibits his selected works in diversified media in a public exhibit on West Bridge or in the Student Union.

Natural art inspires Nancy Hazlett to experiment with a conte crayon life drawing.

Biological Science

"Collecting" is a key idea for all biology enthusiasts. Under department head Dr. Ernest Lamkey, majors collect rocks or insects and thus learn to differentiate between metamorphic and igneous rock specimens, and between insect orders. A collection of winter twigs points out leaf scars and buds, while a harvest of algae can explain the balance of nature in pond life. Information gleaned from all collections is found especially valuable in the student teaching situation.

Business Education

Busy, tapping typewriters and clicking business machines are familiar sounds to members of ISNU's Business Education Department. Under the direction of Dr. Louis Toll, majors in business education may specialize in secretarial work or accounting or take a comprehensive course in both. All business majors, besides knowing machine operations, stenography, and accounting, must also know methods for teaching these skills to high school students who will earn their living through office work.

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party." Student teacher David Dominic helps a student to calculate his net words per minute after a typing drill.

Education and Psychology

Dealing with young individuals and their problems will be a major concern of each ISNU student. To cope with the students' need to understand children, Dr. Chris DeYoung's Department of Education and Psychology offers a wide range of courses for prospective teachers. Beginning with basic courses in child growth and development and general psychology, students are later able to elect Classroom Problems, Social Psychology, Mental Hygiene, or Psychology of Adolescence. Finally in Elementary School Tests and Psychological Testing, students can learn to evaluate the progress of individual children.

Mr. Samuel Hutter administers a non-objective test to a Metcalf student, thus extending one of ISNU's psychological counseling services.

Elementary Education

From her fourth floor office in Schroeder Hall, Miss Helen Nance directs the education of all students who plan to teach in grades one through nine. The elementary majors learn the characteristics of the children that they will eventually teach through frequent observations and a child study as underclassmen. Primary, intermediate grade, or junior high differences are then emphasized through a junior participation program at Metcalf School. As seniors the student teachers realize that their wide variety of experiences has prepared them to assume the responsibilities of a classroom situation.

Sally Middlemas keeps a watchful eye on the activities of her junior painters.

English

Drawing from American, English, and European masterpieces, English majors contrast such works as Hawthorne's Scarlet Letter, Shakespeare's Hamlet, and Dante's Inferno. Before students can really appreciate these works, however, they are required to take a series of basic courses which improve their knowledge of English mechanics. With the advice of Dr. Herbert Hiett, majors then further their interests in the specific areas of journalism, literature, creative writing, and grammar. As seniors and student teachers, they are able to share their interpretation of the classics with their high school classes.

Foreign Language

Though one of the smallest of ISNU departments, the Foreign Language Division covers one of the broadest areas. Working under Dr. Jennie Whitten, the senior faculty member, foreign language majors may study Latin, French, German, or Spanish. Not only can they speak, read, write, and teach their chosen language by the time they graduate, but they also have acquired a broadened outlook through studying foreign cultures. In an age when more and more people are realizing the need for international brotherhood, the foreign language majors are able to cultivate a genuine understanding of foreign peoples.

Geography

Could Shangri-La be found, it would be of interest to all geography majors and minors. After making a thorough examination of its settlement patterns, these students would survey the area's weather, topography, material resources, and economic activities. But, since Shangri-La has not yet been found, the students in Dr. Arthur Watterson's department have to satisfy their curiosity by studying the geographical oddities of the United States, Illinois, South America, and South Russia. Other diversified courses that interest majors and minors are Earth in Space, Climate, Maps in Education, and Physical Geology.

Home Economics

Would you like to be a connoisseur of foods? Miss Florence Davis's home economic majors have this opportunity by taking courses such as Food Customs Around the World, Food Investigations, Demonstration Cookery, and Meal Planning. Rounding out their practical knowledge in other phases of home economics, the girls may elect Costume Design, Child Care and Guidance, Tailoring, Marriage and the Family, and Consumer Economics. In order that they may apply their diversified knowledge, the girls reside for nine weeks in the Rambo Home Management House where they learn all phases of homemaking responsibilities.

Industrial Arts

Jewelry boxes, eabinets, book eases, and end tables are just a few of the articles fashioned by majors and minors in the field of Industrial Arts. Other activities eompleted by these students inelude the preparation of personalized stationery, the drawing of blueprints, and the eonstruction of small motors and radios. Such projects are attempted in both the basie and advanced eourses of crafts, drafting, eleetricity, metal working, printing, and woodworking. Dr. Ray M. Stombaugh requires all students in his department to explore each of these areas while specializing in three of them.

Dr. Johnston explores the possibilities of a full circuit with industrial "artists."

Library Science

"Where can I find a photo of Carrie Nation?" "Who was Tyler's Secretary of War?" Because locating the answers to such questions is one of the tasks of the school librarian, the Department of Library Science under Miss Eleanor Welch helps all student librarians become familiar with good reference sources. Students must also learn library purchasing procedures and to work with fictional and informational books and selection tools. Books, films, records, and pamphlets each present different problems to be solved; but with his background, each student is ready to work in an actual library situation.

Behind the big reference desk, librarian Patricia Ellis checks a table of contents and recommends specific chapters to U High history enthusiasts.

Mathematics

". . . Six, seven, eight, nine, one group of ten, one group of ten and one. . . ." How many teachers actually know just what they are doing when they count? Looking into the real meaning of counting and the basic arithmetic processes is important to math majors and minors in Dr. Clyde T. McCormick's department. These students, required to take college algebra, trigonometry, analytic geometry, and calculus, can elect such advanced courses as Non-Euclidian Geometry and Differential Equations. Most students also find that Statistics and History of Math give them further background when they begin their student teaching.

Meaningful problem solving is one of the major objectives of Dick Ebeling, Dr. Douglas Bey, and Jane Mount in studying integral ealculus.

Men's Health and Physical Education

Mental as well as physical fitness is stressed by Dr. Clifford Horton, head of the Men's Health and Physical Education Department. Under Dr. Horton, students receive professional preparation as coaches in football, baseball, basketball, and track. During their junior and senior years, special attention is given to the duties of coaching, and officiating for, athletic events. Opportunity for improvement of individual and group skills is afforded through a broad four-year program of intramural tournaments.

Music

Music means enthusiasm to majors and minors in Dr. Howard H. Rye's active department. Music students are able to apply their extensive theory work to the real enjoyment of participation in either vocal or instrumental activities. Most musie majors, not satisfied with only one field of endeavor, take additional instruetion in voice, piano, or orchestral instruments. Then, electing eourses in eondueting and musie history, the musieians are ready for student teaching. Throughout their junior and senior years they have the opportunity to share their enthusiasm with both elementary and seeondary students.

Alert for technical flaws, Dr. Howard Rye analyzes his miniature F-7 orchestra.

Physical Science

In this year of earth satellites, rockets, and intermediate range ballistic missiles, the interest of high school students in science has reached unbelievable peaks. To meet the need for more and better science teachers, the Physical Science Department under Dr. Ralph U. Gooding is educating ISNU students in the essentials of both physics and chemistry. After a thorough study of basic scientific principles, departmental majors can elect such advanced courses as Fundamentals of Radio, Modern Physics, Introduction to Aeronautics, Physical Optics, and Fundamentals of Electricity and Magnetism.

Social Science

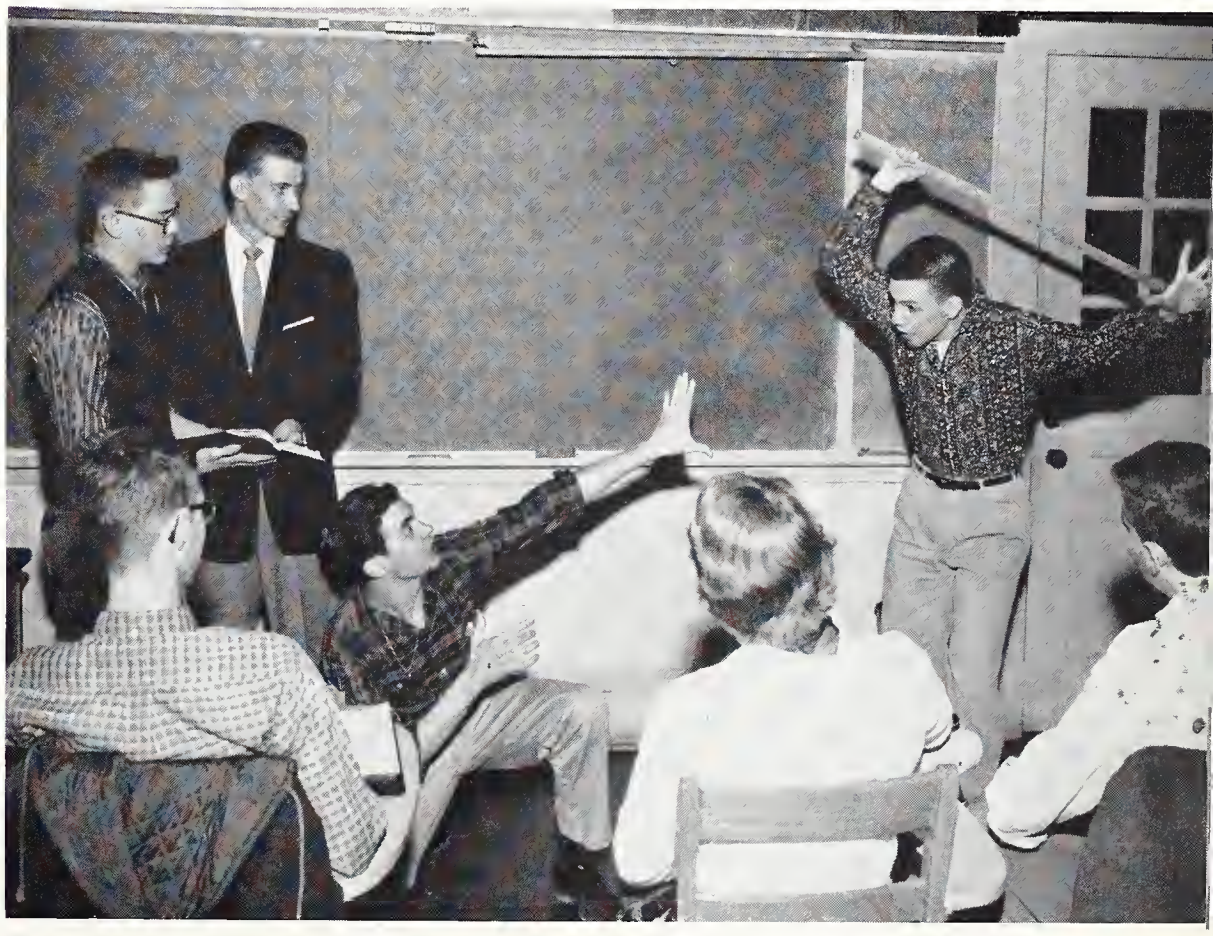

Past, present, and future are encompassed by the social science field when civilization is explored from the Cro-Magnon man to the modern "homo economus." All ISNU students learn about this evolution in taking Con. Civ., History of Civilization, and American History. Majors, with the guidance of Dr. John Kinneman, may delve further into their special fields by taking such electives as Dynastic Rivalries, Political Parties, and Sociology. Additional courses, United States as a World Power and International Relations, enable the major to evaluate and analyze today's critical world situation.

Mr. Warren Harden traces the wavering long-range business cycle for Naomi Sanner and Gordon Coupland in explaining the current recession.

Speech

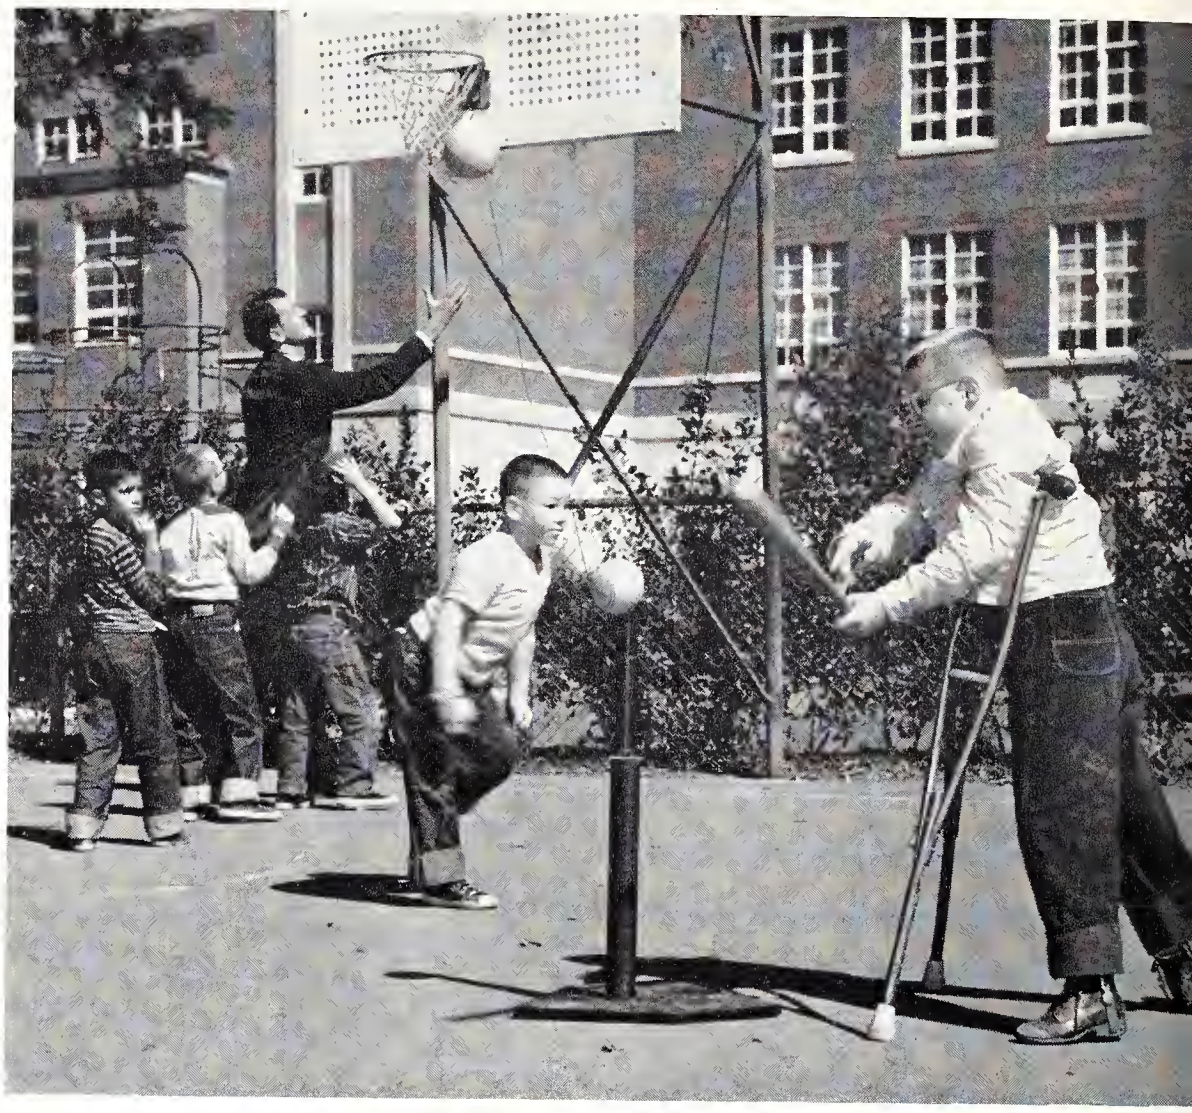

The smell of grease paint, the scrape of the stage properties, and the hot footlights are only a few of the familiar elements in the lives of speech majors on our campus. As the freshman majors are initiated into speech through Voice and Diction, they become acquainted with the various phases of speech education. Guided by department head Dr. F. L. D. Holmes, they elect further courses in the special fields of dramatics, forensics, and speech theory. These students are then urged to participate in drama, discussion, reading, and debate to round out their experiences in preparation for teaching.

"I can't pay the rent! You must pay the rent!" Under the direction of Lee Robbins, U-High speech students enact the classic melodrama.

Special Education

Well known both in Illinois and throughout the United States, Dr. Rose Parker's Department of Special Education trains teachers for exceptional children in six distinct areas. Using the modern facilities and testing services of Fairchild Hall, students have the opportunity to study, work with, and teach the individual physically handicapped, partially sighted and blind, hard of hearing and deaf, speech defective, or socially maladjusted children. Helping such exceptional children develop their potentialities as fully as possible is the special satisfaction of the special education majors.

Handicaps make little difference to baseball fans who spend their noon hours on Metcalf playground with supervisor George Shutack.

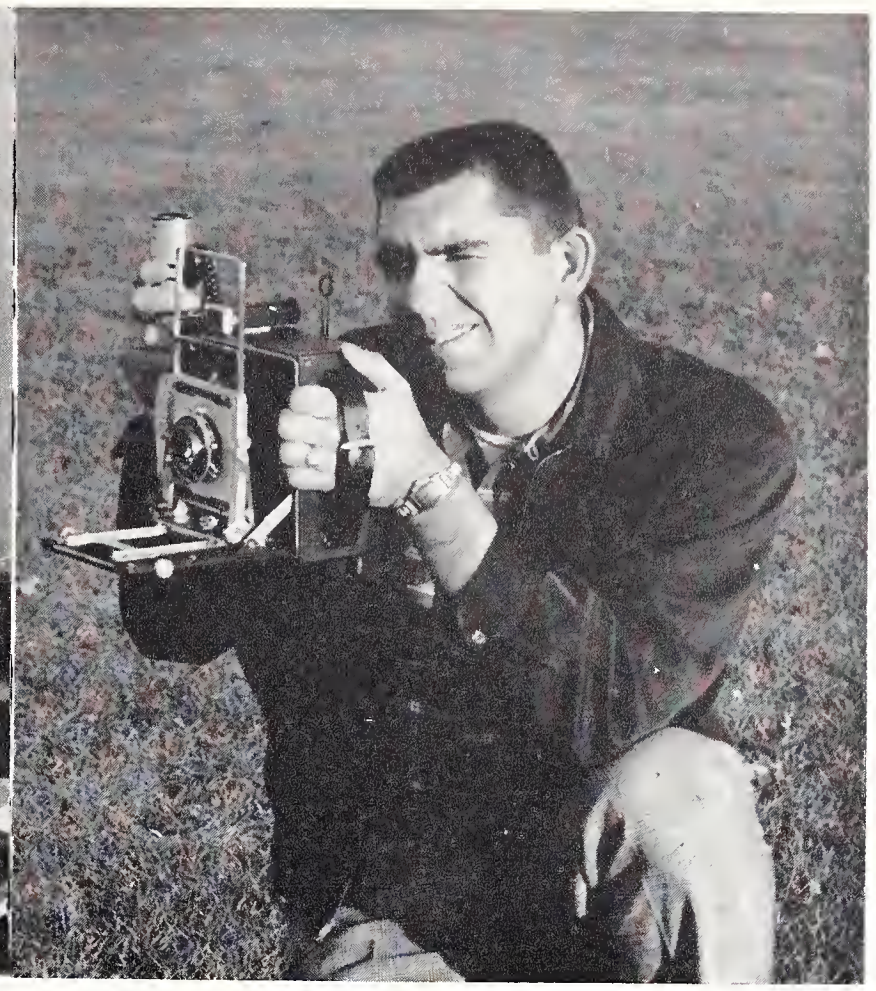

Women's Health and Physical Education

In every season of the year—fall, winter, spring, and summer—girls at ISNU may be seen on campus participating in a variety of sports. These girls, besides enjoying the competitive sports, are also preparing to teach health and physical education to students throughout Illinois. To help them, their department, under Dr. Ellen Kelly, offers the girls such diversified courses as Elements of Modern Dance, Basketball, Anatomy and Physiology, and First Aid. Extraclass activities include sophomore and junior participation in which the girls demonstrate skills to college, high school and elementary students.
